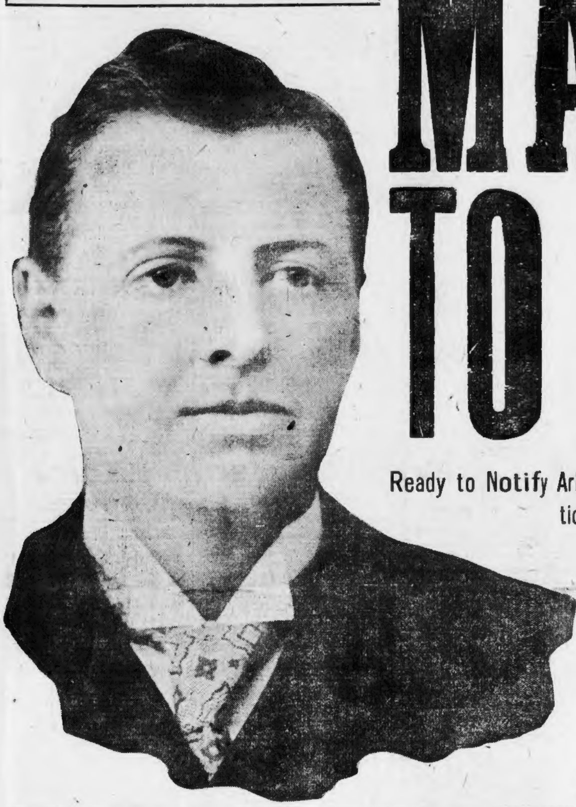
MAYOR ACTS TO STOP STRIKE

Ready to Notify Arbitration Board Under Law Called to His Attention by Boston American—Situation Grows More Acute and Boston Is in Peril of General Tie-up.

HEADS FIGHT ON UNION.

Harrison Loring, Jr., treasurer and manager of the R. S. Brine Transportation Company. He declares Boston will be a non-union town so far as the teamsters are concerned.



In obedience to the law to which his attention was called by the BOSTON AMERICAN, Mayor John F. Fitzgerald to-day notifies the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration that Boston teamsters are on strike, and requests them to take such action as they are required.

The law to which the Mayor's attention was called by this newspaper specifically requires that the chief executive of a city or the selectmen of a town in which a strike is threatened or actually occurs SHALL AT ONCE NOTIFY THE STATE BOARD.

Law Makes Duties Clear.

This is Section 2, Chapter 106, of the law defining the duties and powers of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration:

If it appears to the Mayor of a city or to the Selectmen of a town that a strike or lockout described in this section is seriously threatened or actually occure, HE OR THEY SHALL AT ONCE NOTIFY THE STATE BOARD. If, when the State Board has knowledge that a strike or lockout * * * has actually occurred, * * * the State Board shall, as soon as may be, communicate with such employer and employes and endeavor by mediation to obtain an amicable settlement or endeavor to persuade them * * * to submit the controversy to a local board of conciliation and arbitration or to the State Board. * * *

tI will be noticed that this statute of the Commonwealth declares that the Mayor shall at once notify the State Board not only if there is a strike on, but even if one is seriously threatened.

Richard P. Barry of the Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, when seen at the State House today, declared that he proposed to call on the Mayor to-day and see what could be done toward bringing an end to the strike. He declared that the situation is too serious for them to sit still and that everything possible ought to be done at once to avert further trouble.

Fail to Seek Common Ground.

Up to the present time the State Board has not been asked by any person concerned in the contest between the master teamsters and their employees to make any effort to ascertain a common ground on which the two parties could be brought together.

"Do not let arbitration butt in," was the notice served on the master teamsters, when the strike started, by Secretary Pease of the union-breaking Employers' Association, which is understood to have been backing the team owners.

Attorney Feeley for the master teamsters to-day submitted the draft of an injunction, drawn at the request of Justice Loring, which was not accepted owing to objections by Attorney Mansfield, counsel for the union men.

Sustains Union's Counsel.

n each objection that he made Attorney Mansfield was sustained by Judge Loring, who announced that with consent of counsel he would prepare a new draft and submit it to them this afternoon.

The most important point in the draft by Mr. Feeley was that he union should be restrained from breaking any contracts with other firms by calling out the men when the firms endeavored to move the goods of struck concerns.

"I object most strenuously to that entire clause," said Attorney Mansfield.

"So far as I can see, Mr. Feeley, "Judge Loring said, "there was no evidence introduced to sustain that point."

"That was my entire purpose in putting Mr. Simon Snow on the stand," said Mr. Feeley. "His testimony will show that the union threatened to call out his men, and as a matter of fact did call them out when he tried to move goods of the firms who have been struck.

To Restrain Individuals.

"As I recall the testimony, I can't see that it proved your point," Judge Loring said. "However, I am perfectly willing to hear Mr. Snow's testimony and will be glad if any evidence is introduced to show that the union endeavors to intimidate their men and to break contracts, to issue an injunction without a hearing. That clause will be stricken out now."

Mr. Mansfield also objected to the officers being restrained as such. Judge Loring sustained the point and said they would be restrained as individuals and [illegible]ot as officers.

Mr. Feeley also wanted counsel for the [illegible]en men enjoined from interfering. Judge [illegible]g sustained Mr. Mansfield on that [illegible] in & Co. of East Boston, were mentioned in the draft by Mr. Feeley as one of the plaintiffs. Mr. Mansfield said there had been no testimony introduced to show that this concern had been interfered with. The clause was stricken out.

According to Attorney Feeley there can be no general strike on Monday when the union men employed by non-struck firms are ordered to handle goods for the "struck" firms, as that would be in violation of the injunction.

It has definitely been decided, however, by the members of the Master Teamsters' Association that they will discharge those employes who refuse to handle goods for the "struck" firms. Therefore the union men would not have to strike.

Welcome General Strike.

President Hugo of the Employers' Association said that a general strike is what the owners want.

Harrison Loring, Jr., treasurer and manager of the R. S. Brine Transportation Company, boasted yesterday that next Monday, when the order went into effect, would see Boston a non-union town, so far as the teamsters were concerned. Then there was sent to the street railway company in San Francisco, where there is a strike of employes, this message:

Message to Frisco.

"Bunker Hill sends message to the Golden Gate to stand solid at any cost of life or money. Has taken four weeks here in shadow of Faneuil Hall to arouse merchants and editorial writers that order must be restored. Supreme Court justice issued yesterday most sweeping injunction. Hundreds thousands dollars direct and indirect loss due to inefficiency and inaction. Police commissioner now aroused.

"Battle for principle open shop practically won. Make any use this wire desired. President Eliot, Harvard College, says publicity best correction these troubles.

"R. S. BRINE TRANSPORTATION COMPANY."

Agent Tobin Confident.

Business Agent Tobin and the other officers of Local No. 25 are confident that the union will be able to take care of themselves no matter what action the master teamsters take next Monday. The leaders are confident that the master teamsters want to force a general strike because that is the only way that they see a chance to win the struggle.

The strike-breakers returned from the stables in South Boston later than usual yesterday, and with one exception, passed through the streets unmolested.

Waldo B. Mann, who is employed by the J. F. Hilliard Company, became involved in a dispute with Joseph B. Geary, twenty-four, of No. 5 Bolton street, South Boston, and the latter was arrested.

MURDER SUSPECT HELD.

WATERBURY, Ct., May 9.—Lorenzo Acquinallo, aged thirty-five, is under arrest here on suspicion of causing the death of Rocco Elamo, an Italian, who was found shot to death a few days ago in the woods.

REPORT ARMED CLASH IN LONGSHOREMEN WAR

RUMOR THAT "BREAKERS" OPEN FIRE ON UNION MEN IN NEW YORK STRIKE.

NEW YORK, May 9.—A report was received at police headquarters shortly after 10 o'clock that strike-breakers in the longshoremen's strike on a steam launch had opened fire on union strikers on the dock of the Clyde line at Canal street. Reserves from all the surrounding stations have been hurried to the scene.

Strike Under Under Farley.

Freight is piled up on the steamship piers in West street, South Brooklyn and Hoboken. Steamships are tied up at their docks and sailings have been delayed from five hours to several days. Already the strike is regarded as the largest New York has ever had.

Efforts to fill the places of the men with strike-breakers have done little besides precipitate riots, several of which have resulted seriously.

The loss to the steamship companies up to noon to-day is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Extra Police Vigilance.

The entire police force of the city is on duty night and day. At every pier affected by the strike there is a detail of four policemen. In the west side police stations the reserves are held in readiness for riot calls. The entire river front is guarded and in Williamsburg, where the 1,500 employes of the American Sugar Refinery are on strike, the bluecoats are held on emergency orders.

Fifty men were injured in a riot in Williamsburg between 300 strike-breakers and as many union sympathizers. The riot was fierce and the police had a hard fight to quell it.

The officials of the Longshoremen's Union disclaimed any responsibility for the riot and declared it was due to the zeal of sympathizers and the general disfavor with which strike-breakers are regarded.

Strike-Breakers Under Farley.

James Farley and other agents for breaking strikes, have been smuggling men into the city for two or three days. Four hundred men were at work in two shifts on the White Star pier last night and to-day. They were guarded by special policemen and members of the regular force, and as they worked under the covered Pier No. 40, they were not molested. Strike-breakers are still being used in Brooklyn and other sections in an ineffectual effort to break the tieup of freight.

SEA-SICK 6,000 MILES; REACHES SHORE "BROKE"

The next time that John Philburn takes a voyage upon what Homer calls the deep, resounding sea, it will be after somebody has given him an anaesthetic.

He arrived in Boston on the Wilson liner Consuello to-day after a 6,000-mile trip and without carfare.

On April 7 he wandered to the docks in New York, broke, and contemplating suicide. Instead of killing himself at once he shipped as a cattleman on the Wilson liner Martello. He went to Hull, England. He was sick all the way and he had to work all the way.

At Hull he got aboard the Consuello that was headed this way. He was so anxious to leave Hull that he left his money behind him.

On his way hither he earned $5. As he couldn't eat the food they served him he spent that vast sum bribing the Captain's steward to give him small selections of real food. When he got on dry land to-day he announced to all whom it might concern that the next time he was found on shipboard, ferries and rowboats not excluded, he hoped he would perish.

100 ON WRECK OF BIG STEAMER FACE DEATH

MONTEVIDEO, May 9.—Two score or more passengers and sailors still on the wrecked steamer Polton, which went aground yesterday on the rocks off San Jose Ignacio, are reported to be in extreme danger to-day owing to the sudden increasing violence of the storm which drove the vessel ashore. Several steamers have gone to their rescue, and workers on land are doing every thing possible to take off the menaced passengers, but it is feared the steamer may go to pieces at any moment and all be lost.

To-day's reports are more encouraging as to the total casualties. It is now said the death list will not number more than 100, even if none of the passengers now on the steamer is saved.

The Polton is supposed to have carried approximately 300 passengers and crew. Two hundred of these are reported to have been rescued and to be on their way here now.

The panic which followed the grounding of the steamer was responsible for most of the deaths caused so far.

FIND MISSING MEN, ADRIFT OVER 64 HOURS

Lost in Fog After Leaving the 'Mystery,' They Had Nothing to Eat or Drink.

A thrilling story of hardship at sea was brought to Boston to-day by George Surette and Coleman Babson, the last two survivors of the schooner Mystery, who were lost in the fog on Brown's Bank, N. S., Tuesday.

The men were picked up by the steamer Willie Swift of Bucksport after they had spent sixty-four and a half hours in a dory on the open sea without food or drink.

Their rescue makes it certain that no lives were lost when the dories got away from the schooner in the heavy fog. Surette and Babson were in an open boat that was tossed by heavy seas. They gave themselves up for lost several times.

After being in the dory from 7 o'clock Tuesday morning until half past 11 o'clock last night they were picked up. By that time they were in such condition that they had to be carried to their bunks.

The men were landed in Boston to-day by the steamer Prince George. With them came Captain Herbert Pubmico and John Reed. Their arrival establishes the fact that all the eight men of the crew of the schooner Mystery were saved.

GIANT STEAMSHIP BALTIC STUCK FAST

FAIL TO FREE CRAFT FROM SANDS OUTSIDE NEW YORK; NOTABLES ABOARD.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The huge steamship Baltic of the White Star line, bound for Europe with a great list of notables aboard, was pulled out of the mud at the high water mark to-day, but the powerful tugs, in their efforts to free her, caused the big ship to swerve and jam herself fast again.

The great liner lies in the swash channel. Powerful tugs, with every pound of steam up, are trying to get her free again, but without hope, apparently, at least until evening.

The Baltic first grounded at 5.15 p. m. yesterday during a dense fog. She lay firmly imbedded in the soft mud all night, and because of the heavy weather an unusual number of lights and esignals were displayed to prevent accident.

Every hour the position of the big liner is growing worse, as she is settling deeper and deeper into the mud. It is feared that by evening, when the tide will be high again, shme will be so firmly imbedded that she cannot be moved unlesss her cargo is lightened.

Among the notables on the list of the Baltic's passengers are: Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie and their daughter, Margaret, the Countess of Yarmouth, sister of Harry Thaw, and many others.

TURN RULE

Barring only the new Adriatic, the Baltic is the largest steamship ever built.

When J. Pierpont Morgan crossed in her on her first trip from Liverpool to New York in 1904 he called her "the finest vessel in the world."

She was built by Harland & Wolff at Belfast, Ire., and is 725 feet long, 75 feet on the beam and 49 feet deep.

She has nine decks. The sun deck is eighty-eight feet above the keel. The steamer's deepest draft is thirty-three feet, and her tonnage is 23,000. The new Adriatic exceeds her by 1,000 tons, is one foot deeper, six inches wider and nine inches.

The Baltic carries a crew of 400 and has accommodations for 350 first class, 280 second class and 2,400 steerage passengers.

The Baltic is a wonderful freight carrier, her capacity exceeding 1,000,000 cubic feet, with room for a cargo of 28,000 tons.

Exceeded by Adriatic.

When she is loaded heaviest, she is still fifty-five feet out of water.

The Baltic made her first transatlantic voyage in 7 days 13 hours and 7 minutes from pier to pier.

The Adriatic, which left Liverpool yesterday for New York, brings a record-breaking passenger list. It took three trains to carry the first-class passengers from London to Liverpool.

FITZGERALD CLUB TO ENTERTAIN MAYOR

Mayor Fitzgerald and heads of the Boston city government are to be guests this evening at the annual May party of the Fitzgerald Club of Ward 16, to be held in Wheelock Hall, Upham's Corner, Dorchester. Richard H. Foley, former Representative, is president of the club. William L. Drohan is chairman of the ball committee.

WOMAN GETS LIFE TERM.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., May 9.—Mrs. Alice Cooper, who on September 10 shot and killed her husband, a saloonkeeper in this city, was to-day found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to life imprisonment.

SEEKS BRIDE BY PROPOSAL ON EGGSHELL

Kentucky "White Boy" Asks Hand of Readville Girl by Novel Method.

Sixteen-year-old Eleanor Fleming of Readville has written a letter to Tom Cally, "white boy," as he prudently describes himself, telling him that she was "only jollying" when she answered his message written on a hen's egg and sent to the world at large.

Eleanor's mamma thinks matters have gone far enough, considering that Eleanor is only sixteen years old. But it was a pretty little incident.

According to the evidence on the egg Tom Cally has a turn for romance. They raise eggs on the Cally farm, down in Kentucky. One day, shortly before Easter, when a crate of eggs was shipped North from the Cally farm, young Thomas took one of the eggs and inscribed on its shell in ink, this pleasing message:

WANTED, A WIFE.
Tom Cally, white boy, 20 years old.
Mayslick, Lexington, Kentucky.

Not a Senegambian.

Thomas is a Southerner, and he thought it the part of wisdom to state that he was white and not of Senegambian descent, so that whoever read the egg-shell message might know he was eligible, in the Southern sense at least, to the hand of any white maiden.

The crate of eggs, with the message-laden one included, journeyed North, and landed in a Readville grocery store, the day before Easter. That same day the grocer, making up a dozen eggs for the Easter order of the Fleming family, happened to include this written egg in the order, which was duly left at the Fleming home, No. [illegible] street, Readville.

Mrs. Fleming boiled some eggs for Easter Sunday breakfast. When Eleanor picked out her breakfast egg she selected the written one, and read the message with all the feminine interest one would expect.

"I'm going to write to Tom Cally," she announced.

Feared Tom Would Follow Egg.

And she did. Much to the amusement of herself and the family, she received an immediate and sympathetic reply from the enterprising Thomas, who expressed an ardent desire to meet the Northern girl who had eaten his romantic egg.

Eleanor read his letter to the family and to some of her girl chums with much glee. Then the story got around and she found herself being "jollied" considerably. Her mother decided that it was about time to call a halt, lest young Cally should follow up the egg, come North and demand Miss Eleanor as his bride.

So Eleanor now sends a letter dashing the Cally "eggspectations."

PLATT MOVES TO LIVE NEAR MASSEUSE

Quits Apartments in Gotham Hotel for Home in Private House.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Quitting the luxurious quarters which had been specially fitted up for him in the Hotel Gotham as a haven in which he was expected to spend the rest of his days, Senator Thomas C. Platt moved last week to the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Abel, in the Elmendorf, No. 133 West Eleventh street.

Senator Platt's departure from the Gotham caused surprise and disappointment from Manager Bennett down. Mr. Bennett has known Senator Platt intimately for years, and had taken especial pains to make him comfortable.

It was explained to Mr. Bennett that Senator Platt was going there so that he could have the constant services of the masseuse who had been attending him at the Gotham.

Senator Platt has been unable to walk without assistance for the last two or three years, and he has found it necessary to have his legs massaged constantly. He has been treated for some time by a woman, who has given great satisfaction, but she has been unable to be at the hotel later than 8 o'clock at night.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel said the report that Senator Platt was living in their house was true.

DELIRIOUS, RICE FLED HOSPITAL

Special to the Boston American.

BEVERLY, May 9.—Delirious, it is thought from typhoid fever, John Rice, aged thirty-five years, a patient in the Beverly Hospital, leaped from a second-story window and is now being hunted for everywhere. It is feared that he may harm himself or perish from exposure as he was clad only in his nightclothes when he made his desperate escape.

RUN DOWN BY TEAM, MAN IS NEAR DEATH

Alfred Ducette, forty-five years old, of No. 65 Lauriat avenue, Dorchester, is dying at the Relief Hospital as the result of being run over by a team driven by John Marthers, 276 Athens street, early to-day, at Richmond street and Atlantic avenue. The man became confused and stepped in front of the team. He has a fractured skull and abrasions and wounds on the head and face.

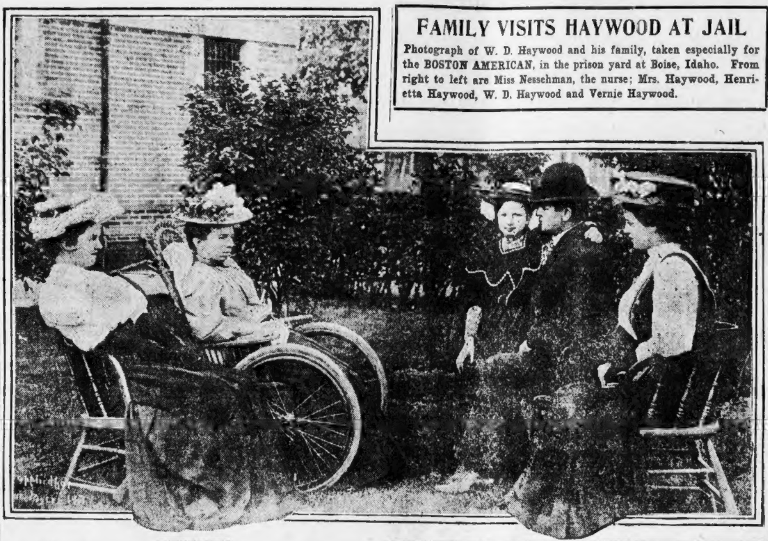
Trial of Haywood Begun; Eyes of Nation on Boise



FAMILY VISITS HAYWOOD AT JAIL

Hard Work Expected Getting Jury in Famous Steunenberg Murder Case.

BOISE, Idaho, May 9.—"Sheriff, bring in the prisoner."

In a voice which penetrated every corner of the well-filled courtroom, District Judge Fremont Wood, shortly after 10 o'clock to-day, gave instructions to Sheriff Hodgin, and the most famous murder trial of the history of the West was on.

The sheriff returned escorting a heavy, smooth-shaven, strong-featured man, who, walking with the light step of a boy, passed through the crowd with difficulty and took a seat at the head of the table reserved for counsel for the defence.

This was William D. Haywood, an official of the Western Federation of Miners, and alleged by the prosecution to be the head and front of the so-called "inner circle" that was responsible for the reign of terror that prevailed in the mining regions for years, culminating on December 30, 1905, in the murder of former Governor Steunenberg, who was blown to pieces by a bomb while entering his home at Caldwell.

A Power Among Fellows.

If Haywood felt any fear at his present situation he did not indicate it by his manner. It is easy enough to understand that he was a power among his fellows while he had his liberty. His face is that of a leader of men, and once seen is not likely to be forgotten. He was dressed in a suit of dark material with turndown collar and a new black string tie, and his hair had been carefully brushed. Sitting beside his lawyers, he was easily the most noticeable of the group, and it was hard indeed to realize that this man was charged with plotting the most dastardly crime in the criminal annals of Idaho.

There was not the slightest trace of nervousness in his makeup, but his stern set face indicated that he believed fully that the authorities were determined to fix the Steunenberg murder on him and his two associates, Charles H. Moyer and G. A. Pettibone, both of whom also are in jail here awaiting trial.

Defended by Big Lawyers.

It did not take the court long to get down to work—a nod from Judge Wood and Sheriff Hodgin, acting as carrier, made the usual announcement and the trial was on. First came the question of selecting the jury, and while the anxious veniremen were trying to impress Judge Wood with the fact that they were not qualified to serve, the spectators had the chance to look over the noted figures in the case.

Seated at the table with Haywood were his counsel, all men with recognized reputations as experts in criminal law. First was the emaciated figure of James H. Murphy, of Denver, chief attorney of record, and from its organization counsel for the Western Federation of Miners. Then there was E. F. Richardson, whose knowledge of law is concededly great; C. S. Darrow, of Chicago, who has served union labor in many famous cases; Fred Miller, of Spokane, and John F. Nugent, of Boise.

It was plain to be seen that nothing was to be left undone to safeguard the interests of the accused. And this array of eminent counsel will be needed before the trial finally is concluded.

Senator Borah to Assist.

Determined to secure conviction, if possible, Governor Gooding has caused to be retained the best available lawyers in the capital. The chief counsel is J. H. Hawley, a leading figure in his chosen profession, a jury lawyer, through and through, whose eloquent voice has often swayed a doubting twelve and swung them around to his own belief. He will be ably assisted by the new Senator from Idaho, W. E. Borah.

Borah is one of the State's foremost attorneys and a cross-examiner who has few equals. Associated with these two are O. M. Vanduyn and W. A. Stone of Caldwell, both excellent attorneys.

Altogether the legal talent on both sides is the best obtainable. That it will take a long while to secure a jury was shown as soon as the examination of the first veniremen was begun. Judge Wood gave the attorneys the widest latitude in the examination of talesmen, with the result that an enormous amount of time was consumed. The questions asked dealt with every phase of the case, people interested in it and lawyers concerned.

The questioning was monotonous in the extreme, but it was plain no chances were going to be taken of a mistrial.

Task to Get Jury.

The victim of the Caldwell assassination, long a conspicuous figure in the political life of the State, was personally known to hundreds of citizens of Ada County, and personal alignment and partizanship is general, so that it is a difficult task to find men free from the disqualifications that unfit them for the high duty of a juror.

Judge Fremont Woods, to whom everyone here looks for fair play, is a down East Yankee, who came to Idaho fifteen years ago. He is about forty.

Idaho has made extensive financial provision for the case, although not as much money has been appropriated thus far as the defendants are reported to have secured from their labor organization friends. At the last session of the last Legislature $50,000 was appropriated to take up deficiency warrants that had been issued to meet expenses already incurred and an additional $52,000 was appropriated to meet future expenses.

It is pointed out here in Boise as an evidence of the size of the fund at the disposal of the defendants, that they are running a daily paper, the Idaho Unionist, devoted to their cause.

HOW GOVERNOR STEUNENBERG MET HIS DEATH

All over the United States the outcome of the trials of the three officers of the Western Federation of Miners will be closely watched. Not in years has there been a trial of such importance, and particularly is organized union labor awaiting the outcome.

Governor Frank Steunenburg was killed by a bomb at the gate of his home on the night of December 30, 1905.

Orchard's Implication.

Two days later Thomas Hogan was arrested, charged with the murder, and identified by the authorities as Harry Orchard.

Three months later he is said to have confessed his own share in the murder and charged President Charles H. Moyer, Secretary W. D. Haywood and Director G. A. Pettibone with comprising an "inner circle" that had charge of the affair.

"Steve" Adams was also arrested, charged with complicity in the crime.

An interesting legal complication in the case was caused by the circumstances of the arrest of Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone.

Warrants for their arrest were sworn out in Idaho. Their home was in Colorado. Application was made to the Governor of Colorado for requisition papers, and they were granted in due form.

The troubles of which the trial is a climax, began fifteen years ago in the Coeur d'Alene mines and culminated in the Colorado mining riots about two years ago. The deaths of several hundred persons are traced, directly and indirectly, to those troubles. Governor Steunenberg was by far the most prominent victim.

JUGGLING

BOWLER TODAY WAITS HIS FATE

Having yesterday pleaded guilty to eight counts of forgery, in conection with his issuance of notes to the amount of $14,400 to "Poco" Bennett, the Harvard old clothes man, George P. Bowler, the Harvard spendthrift, will to-day appear in Superior Criminal Court to receive his sentence. His attorneys ask that he be put under some form of probation, urging that a term at Concord would simply be a schooling in crime. Neither his wife, whom he deserted for Mrs. Edith Reynolds, or the latter, were in court yesterday.

MYSTERY IN MIZNER CASE

NEW YORK, May 9.—A motion to confirm the report of the referee appointed two weeks ago to take testimony in the suit for divorce instituted by Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes-Mizner against Wilson Mizner, has been withdrawn in the Supreme Court. No explanation of the act was given, but it was learned that Justice Dowling, before whom the proceeding came, had announced that he would not sign any divorce decree which included an order to seal the papers.

Higginson Weds Actress in Father's Country Home Today

Ceremony Uniting Boston Society Man With Jeanne Carducci Takes Place at Noon in Manchester-by-the-Sea.

Alexander Henry Higginson, of Boston and Lincoln, and Miss Jeannie Carducci, who wed at noon to-day in Manchester-by-the-Sea.

ARMSTRONG PHOTO.

Alexander Henry Higginson, son of Major and Mrs. Henry L. Higginson of Boston, and Miss Jeanne Calducci were wed to-day at the Higginson's country home at West Manchester-by-the-Sea.

Mr. Higginson is known widely for his wealth, his fondness for blooded horses and dogs and for his general interest in high-class sports. He married Miss Rosamund Tudor ten years ago. She divorced him and later married W. Starling Burgess.

Miss Calducci is a beautiful stage singer and dancer. She is twenty-two years old and possesses all the dark, glorious beauty to which her Italian ancestry entitles her.

An interesting feature of to-day's ceremony is the presence of Master Henry L. Higginson, the seven-year-old son of the bridegroom-elect by his former marriage.

This handsome little fellow has been in the care of his mother, Mrs. Burgess, who brings him up with her two later children, born of her own second marriage. But, for his father's wedding to-day, he is allowed to be at West Manchester.

Extreme secrecy has been maintained about the wedding plans. It is reported that the Rev. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity Church, Boston, has been engaged to officiate at the ceremony, also that Harold Vanderbilt was to serve as best man for Mr. Higginson.

None of Miss Calducci's relatives are expected to be present. Her parents are in Italy.

The bride-elect has been entertained during the past week by Major and Mrs. Higginson at their home on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, and also at the country home in Lincoln of her prospective husband. There have been delightful house parties held in honor of the bride-elect. She went out to West Manchester yesterday as the guest of Mrs. Higginson until after the wedding.

Miss Calducci was comparatively unknown till Mr. Higginson began to pay her marked attentions. She has appeared in "Fantana" and the "Chinese Honeymoon," then in "The Student King," which was produced in this season and the past season.

She attracted some attention on account of her beauty and her very graceful dancing, but nothing like the fame she secured the moment Mr. Higginson appeared on the scene. Throughout her professional career she has been a theatrical side partner of Miss Katherine Cooper, whose blonde beauty formed a perfect foil for the brunette charms of Miss Calducci.

DEMAND POLICE HALT AUTO SPEED MADNESS

CRY OF INDIGNATION RAISED BY HEEDLESS KILLINGS OF FOUR VICTIMS.

Roused by the recent deaths of four victims of auto-speed-madness a wave of indignation is sweeping the city to-day at the reckless driving of many Boston chauffeurs and a demand will be made that the police take stringent measures to protect the lives and limbs of innocent pedestrians.

The fourth victim of the speed mania, Benjamin Joffe, a Chelsea boy, was hurled from his bicycle to death last night.

Joseph McEachern, a four-year-old child, living in the North End, was also struck by a huge touring car which sped swiftly on, not stopping to inquire into the condition of its tiny victim.

Ghastly Record of Hub's Speed Madness

April 22—Albert Rasmussen killed at Dorchester.

May 3—Frank Needham killed at Lexington.

May 6—Warren Batcheller killed in Cambridge.

May 8—Benjamin Joffe killed on Revere Parkway Boulevard.

Hurled from Bicycle.

Joffe, who lives at No. 158 Arlington street, Chelsea, and two other lads, Alex Morris of No. 188 Ashland street, and Norman Day of No. 166 Ashland street, Chelsea, was riding his wheel on the Revere Beach parkway.

The trio had reached Everett avenue, when they met an automobile owned by the Massachusetts Automobile Club and containing the chauffeur, James P. Clark of Dorchester, and two others, coming from the opposite direction.

An electric car had stopped at the boulevard just before crossing and the boys were partially hidden behind this, riding around one end of the car and coming unexpectedly into the pathway of the speeding automobile, the dead boy's wheel and the touring car colliding head on.

The boy was thrown a considerable distance and his wheel completely demolished and before the machine could be stopped it had run over him.

Clark brought the ponderous machine to a standstill, and placing the unconscious form of the lad in the tonneau hurried to the Frost Hospital in Chelsea. The boy died shortly after reaching the hospital.

Locked Up in Chelsea.

The chauffeur then drove his car to the Chelsea police station and surrendered himself to the officers. The Everett officers were notified and Patrolman Palmer of Everett went to Chelsea for the man. Clark was allowed to take his party back to Boston and was then locked up at the Everett police station.

He was held to-day on the charge of manslaughter under bonds of $1,000, which he furnished himself.

Joseph McEachern, who lives at 42 Eastern avenue, North End, was run down while playing near 234 Commercial street by a big car which was driving through the street at a fast rate of speed. After the accident the chauffeur of the machine did not lessen his speed, but disappeared down the street in a cloud of dust.

The injured boy was taken to the hospital, where it was found that he had suffered fractures to his arm and leg.

To-day the police are looking for the owner and chauffeur of the car.

FILE NEW EDDY AFFIDAVITS ON THE LAST DAY

CONCORD, N. H., May 9.—Delaying until 4 o'clock yesterday, the last date for filing papers in the Eddy suit, the original plaintiffs filed in the Superior Court here supplemented and separate affidavits, reiterating the charges in the original bill, filed March 1.

The new separate bills were filed by order of Judge Chamberlain through their attorneys by George W. Glover, Mary Baker Glover, Ebenezer J. Foster and George W. Baker, as next friends, in the bill in equity against Frye et al. for an accounting of the estate of the aged head of the Christian Science Church.

The new affidavits reassert the incompetency of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy to manage her own affairs, charge that there is a conspiracy against her by members of her own household, declare that she is under the control of Secretary-Coachman Frye and others, and allege that the aged woman is not allowed to exercise her own will in regard to her personal business.

Attorney DeWitt C. Howe of attorneys for the plaintiffs filed the final affidavits with Clerk Shurtliff. One of these was signed by George W. Glover and Mary Baker Glover, and set forth that the allegations which had been previously made in the original bill filed by them were true. The affidavit of George W. Baker was similar.

CHEER BOSTON MEN STARTING FOR IRELAND

One Thousand at Dock to See United Irish League Delegates Off on Arabic.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Amid the cheers of more than one thousand people who had gathered on the pier of the White Star Steamship Company in Charlestown, more than five hundred of whom were Irish-Americans, the big steamer Arabic backed slowly out into the Charles river early to-day and started seaward, bearing among her passengers Thomas B. Fitzpatrick, national treasurer of the United Irish League of America; John J. O'Callaghan, national secretary, and Dr. P. J. Timmins, delegates to the Irish National Convention which is to meet in Dublin on May 20 to consider Secretary Birrell's bill for home rule.

Many floral offerings had been sent to the staterooms of the delegates by their friends, and the societies of which they are members. In the stateroom of Mr. Fitzpatrick stood a magnificent floral Irish harp made of American beauty and bride's roses, the gift of the United Irish League of Boston. This floral emblem stood fully five feet high.

To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, Mr. Fitzpatrick said:

"We are going to Dublin to do all we possibly can to help the cause of the Irish race. The recent agitation in the House of Commons shows that the Irish will secure home rule in the very near future. There seems to be a great measure of power given to the Irish people by the new bill which they never before possessed, and I am more than gratified that such a great advance has been made."

NAMES FRENCH GOVERNESS IN DIVORCE SUIT

Massachusetts Clergyman's Daughter Sues Quaker City Physician.

STUDYING, HIS DEFENCE

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Mrs. Alice May Martin, daughter of a Massachusetts Baptist clergyman, is suing Dr. William J. Martin, a prominent Germantown physician, for divorce, and names Bertha Hall, a French governess.

Mrs. Martin testified before a referee that she had found an ardent missive from Miss Hall in the pocket of her husband's coat, and that when she confronted him with it, Martin told his wife that she was no longer anything to him and she might leave.

The doctor had, she said, met the woman as a patient and to explain his continued acquaintance with her, Martin says he was being instructed in French. Upon her return from a visit to a married daughter in Lowell, Mass., neighbors poured stories into Miss Martin's ears. Increasing coldness on the part of her husband confirmed her suspicions and for the past two years she has been earning her own living, while occupying separate apartments in the Martin home. The finding of the Bertha Hall letter caused the final break.

"Pope Pius Is an Extraordinary Force"

LAWSON CABLES: "It was borne in on me that when Pope Pius makes his decision, no earthly power can move him."

It was in the Pope's study that Lawson interviewed him. This is a photo of the Church's Father having his portrait painted in his study. A statue of St. Peter is on the desk.

HEAD OF THE CHURCH TELLS OF THE VALUE OF AMERICAN ASSISTANTS.

BY THOMAS W. LAWSON.

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE BOSTON AMERICAN.

ROME, May 9.—I have had an interesting interview with His Holiness, Pope Pius, and my morning at the Vatican was, I may truly say the most interesting experience of my life.

At first I was struck by the Pope's extreme simplicity amid magnificent surroundings. Pope Pius is that rarity, a perfectly natural man. After seeing him I can understand why the Cardinals elected him.

He is transparently honest, and one of the most remarkble and touching things about him is that his tenderness and gentleness are almost more motherly than fatherly.

But back of all this, I recognized a force and solidity of character that are extraordinary. It was borne in on me that when Pope Pius makes his decision no earthly power can move him. If the French Government thinks the Pope will yield in the present struggle between the Vatican and Elysee it is mistaken.

Perhaps I can best convey the impression of the mans overwhelming atmosphere of power when I say that when I entered his presence $ thought myself six feet tall; when I left it I felt that I was less than two feet high.

I always knew that the Catholic Church was an immense force in the world, and that it is especially a force in America, but that quiet, kindly, white robed figure in the Vatican, with 250,000,000 human beings behind him, brought the truth graphically, personally home to me.

American Prelates an Immense Consolation.

During my conversation with the Pope he spoke of the American bishops and Catholics, their attitude toward and their help to him, as an immense consolation in his many trials.

After my audience with the Pope I visited Cardinal Merry del Val the Papal Secretary of State. We talked for three quarters of an hour about the great questions of the day. The Cardinal also referred enthusiastically to American Catholics, and told me that the Pope often refers to the magnificent vitaliy of American Catholicism.

The Cardinal struck me especially as having the trait which I have always noticed as being eminently characteristic of the really great man—that it, an eagerness, constant and insatiable, to learn.

Understands American Conditions Well.

He is a wonderfully open-minded man, and seems to understand American conditions, domestic, political and religious, as thoroughly as though he were on the spot. Perhaps more so, for he sees with a horizon, so that between him and it there is the distance which enables a man to judge of groups and not be swayed by particles.

The Pope and his Secretary of State, form a notable and excellent contrast. In conclusion, let me say that I think one of the wisest acts that Pope Pius ever did was his selection of Cardinal Merry del Val as his chief helper.

MAYOR'S ORDER SETTLES BIG BATHHOUSE PLUMS

CONTRACTS FOR NEW BUILDINGS GO TO STAUNCH FITZGERALD MEN.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald is taking deep interest in the city's bath department just now.

Not only is he suggesting to Superintendent Joseph P. H. O'Brien who shall be hired to work in the different bath houses during the coming season, but within a few days he ordered Superintendent O'Brien to see that contracts to build two new bath houses were given to men who have been enthusiastic supporters of the Fitzgerald machine.

It was recently decided to build a bath house on the Strandway between South Boston and Dorchester and another in Dorchester near the Neponset line.

The Mayor sent for Mr. O'Brien.

Mayor's Curt Order.

"Have M. J. Fish of No. 157 Northampton street and James F. Flaherty of No. 51 Mount Vernon street notified that the Strandway bath house is to be built and tell them to submit bids," he told the Superintendent.

Mr. O'Brien obeyed orders, and within a day or two Mr. Flaherty and Mr. Fish made known the figures for which they would do the work.

Mr. Flaherty asked $3,850 and Mr. Fish $3,425.

By the Mayor's orders Mr. Flaherty was told that the contract would be awarded to him.

"But Mr. Fish's bid is the lowest," Superintendent O'Brien is said to have suggested.

"Give him the other bathhouse to build," was the Mayor's reply.

Trustees to Be "Shown."

At the office of the bathhouse commissioner it was admitted yesterday that Mr. Flaherty's bid had been received and that one from Mr. Fish should be in the hands of the superintendent to-morrow.

No one who understands the situation will explain why Mr. Flaherty and Mr. Fish were especially chosen to bid for the Strandway bathhouse.

"When the Mayor wishes he settles a matter of this kind," said a City Hall official.

There is a supposition, based on the law, that all bids for work done for the bathhouse department shall be considered by the bathhouse trustees.

A BOSTON AMERICAN reporter was told yesterday by Superintendent O'Brien that the bids from Mr. Flaherty and Mr. Fish will be "shown" to the bathhouse trustees.

MELLEN'S SON QUITS RAILROAD FOR COAL

NEW HAVEN, Ct., May 9.—Graham K. Mellen, son of Charles S. Mellen, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, has decided to quit railroading and to try the coal business. With Albert H. Powell and Heaton R. Wright, he has established the New Haven Coal Company with $10,000 capital.

DAUGHTER RUNS AWAY.

PORTLAND, Me., May 9.—Wesley J. Weir, who lives at No. 422 Cumberland avenue, reported to the police that his pretty sixteen-year-old daughter, Lucy, has left home, leaving a note that it would be useless to hunt for her.

MOB OF 1,000 RIOTERS STONE FRISCO CARS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—Regardless lay the loss sustained by the transatlantic both sides, Mayor Schmitz ended a strike conference last night by declaring he would appoint a committee of fifty citizens to pass upon the questions at issue.

The police, for the first time since the commencement of the strike against the united railroads, furnished actual protection, and as a result two cars were run over six miles of track without the firing of a shot.

The route selected was through the better business and residence streets. Four men, one of them a strike-breaker, the other three members of the electrical workers' union, were injured. There was intermittent hurling of missiles by crowds at various points, and for two or three miles a mob of at least a thousand men and boys ran with the cars, yelling.

About twenty police officers and patrolmen, led by Chief Dinan, some of them in automobiles, a number mounted on horses, and others on foot, accompanied the cars. When necessity arose they drew clubs and many heads were bruised.

The police had instructions to board the cars, search operatives for revolvers and arrest strike-breakers found armed. Officials kept their promise that none of the carmen would be armed.

The second death as the result of Tuesday's riot occurred yesterday afternoon, when John Buchanan, a car shop employe, died at the Emergency Hospital. He was shot through the abdomen. Two others are not expected to live.

The strike already has seriously injured business. Many of the big retail stores have decided to open late and close early, and most of them have laid off a number of their employes.

According to a dispatch from Omaha, six cars filled with strike-breakers for use in San Francisco passed through Omaha yesterday over the Union Pacific. The men were recruited in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Minneapolis.

ALL OFFICIALS FLEE ATTACKS OF PULAJANES

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A translation of the act of the municipal council of Cauayan, Occidental Negros, sent to the United States, shows how the Filipino mind is able to even legislate against a calamity before it happens. It says:

"Whereas, this municipality lacks the means to resist a superior force, such as the one which has made the assault and sacked the barrio of Cabancalan, by the council be it resolved,

"That in order to protect the money interest, the safe of the municipal treasurer of the Pueblo, together with the vouchers and books, that immediately upon notification of the approach of Pulajanes there shall be held in readiness a vessel in which there shall embark, with the strong box, vouchers, cash, etc., the municipal president, the municipal treasurer and two policemen, to be taken to a place of safety."

SAN CARLO SINGERS GIVE "DON PASQUALE"

"Don Pasquale," an opera seldom played in the United States, was given as the second of their list by the San Carlo Opera Company at the Park Theatre last evening. Alice Nelisen sang the role of Norina, and a number of new faces were seen among the principals. Signor Barocchi sang the title role, and Signor Fornari even surpassed his excellent work as the Marcello of Monday night in the difficult part of Dottor Malatesta. Signor Sacchetti and Signor Valentini, neither of whom have appeared here before, were the Ernesta and the Notary.

GET-RICH-QUICK WRECK DRAGS IN 4 CONCERNS

Creditors of the four associated "get-rich-quick" companies petitioned into bankruptcy are to-day guessing as to the percentage which they will recover from the wreck. The concerns are A. P. Aldrich & Sons, incorporated; the Ambler-Hobart Company of East Braintree; the Fowle's Arlington Mills of Arlington, and the South Shore Company of Quincy, the first-named being the parent concern.

The affairs of the several concerns are so mixed up with each other that it is impossible to estimate what percentage may saved until the receiver has had time to make an investigation.

"All the companies are bankrupt in the worst sense," declared Clarence S. Eldridge, associate council with Rogers Dow for the creditors, in the court proceedings yesterday.

On motion of Mr. Dow before Judge Dodge of the United States District Court, who alleged that each firm had transferred a portion of its property to S. O. Bennett of Boston, Frank O. White of Brookline, with law offices in Boston, was appointed receiver.

Smash Causes Sensation.

The accounts of the trouble created a sensation in commercial and financial circles, which was further accentuated by the report that another concern affiliated with those would be brought before the bankruptcy court during the day. It was surmised that the South Shore Grain Company was referred to, and this proved to be true, for early in the day a petition against it was filed by Mr. Duke, who made the same allegations regarding Mr. Bennett as in the other cases.

The parent concern is the A. P. Aldrich & Sons Company, which was organized about three years ago with an original capital of $50,000, afterward raised to $150,000. All the other concerns were auxiliary to this and were organized within the past year.

The Aldrich company formerly occupied a suite of offices in the Boston Chamber of Commerce building, but when the lease expired the first of this year the directors refused to renew it and the firm was obliged to vacate. A. P. Aldrich had been a member of the Chamber of Commerce for years before his death, and his son, E. A., a junior member of the firm, also held membership for a while, but was expelled by the directors for what one of them termed "practices."

"First Aid" to the Bowels

WHEN Heartburn, Sour Stomach, Headache, Bad Breath, coated Tongue, Belching of Stomach, Gas, or any of these forerunners of Indigestion appear, Old Dr. Cascaret wants to be right on the spot in your pocket.

Dr. Cascaret guarantees to cure the most obstinate cases of Constipation and Indigestion, without discomfort or inconvenience.

His medicine does not gripe nor purge, but exercises naturally the muscles that line the walls of the Intestines and Bowels.

* * *

Want of Exercise weakens and relaxes the Bowel-Muscles, just as it weakens Arm and Leg muscles.

Old Dr. Cascaret goes directly after these Bowel-Muscles. He wakes them up just as a cold bath would wake up a lazy person.

Then he works them (through the nerves) till they get so strong from that Exercise that they don't need any more help to do their duty.

* * *

Heavy dinners, late suppers, whiskey, wine or beer drinking, nervous excitement, sudden exposure to cold or heat and a dozen other everyday likelihoods tire the Bowel-Muscles.

In such cases a little Cascaret in time is worth fifty dollars worth of Treatment later on, to say nothing of the suffering, discomfort, loss of Business Energy, and loss of Social Sunshine it saves.

* * *

Little thin Cascaret Box, shaped so you don't notice its presence in purse or vest-pocket.

Contains six Candy tablets—Price Ten Cents a Box at any Druggist's.

Be sure you get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC." n742

BOYS AS DASHING CHORUS MAIDS TO SING IN AMATEUR OPERA "FAIRYLAND"

"In Fairyland," the highly successful comic opera produced by the Somerville High School Fraternity, Gamma Eta Kappa, will be repeated to-night in Unitarian Hall, Somerville.

The opera was written and is staged by Robert Nichols, a member of the fraternity and of the First Corps of Cadets. Another member of the Cadets, who takes part in this opera, is Walter Anderton, who, dressed as a girl, sings his famous "Congo Maid" song.

From first to last, the fraternity boys take all of the parts—tenors in love, chorus girls, merry boys and girls who romp and play on the village green, prima donnas, comedians, and all of the other characters which appear in every up-to-date comic opera. The dances of the chorus-boys are among the big hits of the show.

The show was first produced last February and was a tremendous success. Its breezy, rollicking songs and its local hits have since been repeated in part at a number of social entertainments, notably at the Newtowne Club in Cambridge.

The performance tonight will be the entire opera as first produced.

ANTI-TRUST BILL PUZZLE OF SESSION

"Interests" Want It Killed and Union Labor Men Are Suspicious of It.

BUTTRICK GETS IN "JOKER"

The anti-monopoly bill, so-called, supposed to have been the result of the Hisgen-Griswold petition for a law which would put a stop to discrimination in prices between different communities in this State, has been set for consideration in the Senate on Tuesday of next week.

For misunderstandings, cloudiness and uncertainties, everybody on Beacon Hill is agreed that the bill, in its present form, is the prize mess of the year. The Hisgens, who have been fighting the Standard Oil monopoly in and around Springfield and against whom the Standard made a 7-cent price in that district while taking 14 cents in Boston and elsewhere, hardly recognize their legislative offspring in the present measure.

Senator Allan G. Buttrick of Lancaster, has held the bill up until next week, at which time he will offer its substance matter in a new draft.

Interests Want Bill Killed.

While there is said to be little doubt that the "interests" want the bill killed, its provision against contracts in restraint of "trade and occupation" has caused alarm among trades unionists; and more especially among those organizations which contract with their employers to fill every vacancy.

Representative Charles A. Dean of Wakefield made an attempt in the House to have these words stricken out. Potter of Worcester, for the Committee on Mercantile Affairs, finally accepted the Grady amendment, that nothing in the bill is to be construed against combinations for higher wages or shorter hours. The amendment, it is feared, hardly takes care of those unions which contract to fill all places.

Add 'Joker' to Measure.

Friends of the wageearners in the Senate will not be hasty about the bill.

Sentor Allan G. Buttrick, of Lancaster, in Worcester county, probably the best friend that the "interests" have on Beacon Hill, now proposes a little amendment providing that the provisions of the bill shall not apply to agriculture or dairy products, or to live stock, while in the hands of producer or raiser.

Because of just such an exemption in an Illinois anti-monopoly bill, it was said to-day at the State House, the act has there been declared unconstitutional.

PAWNBROKER BILL PASSES

There was some faint echo of Representative William E. Weeks of Everett in the Massachusetts Senate yesterday when the upper branch of the Legislature, 28 to 6, sent to the House for concurrence a bill making it unlawful to take to the pawnbroker, "with intent to defraud," any article of "personal property" bought on a conditional contract of sale.

It was pointed out that the difference between this proposition and the bill that Weeks of Everett was caught with in the house is that the later bill calls for an "intent to defraud." The Weeks proposition, denounced by Police Commissioner O'Meara as an attempt to make the police unpaid employees of men who sell watches on the instalment plan, would have made a criminal of the pledger with or without an "intent to defraud."

CALL MELLEN CORRUPTER OF LEGISLATURE

Sensational Charges Preferred Against the New Haven Road.

HARTFORD, Ct., May 9.—Charges that legislative agents of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad had tried to corrupt and debauch members of the Legislature were made in the Senate chamber yesterday afternoon during debate which, for character of language used, was unprecedented in the State's legislative history. The attacks were directed against the New York, New Haven & Hartford road, President Mellen of that system, the legislative agents of the corporation and Senator Thompson, chairman of the Committee on Railroads. The most sensational speech was by Senator Stiles Judson, president pro tempore of the Senate.

The order of the day was a batch of petitions for incorporation of new trolley lines, these being, it is said, part of a general plan of unknown interests to create a chain of trolley lines paralleling portions of the New Haven system. It was declared during debate, however, that these proposed corporations were individual ones, without any special financial or physical connection.

"King of Lobbyists."

When the debate began Senator Francis Atwater (Dem.), a publisher of Meriden, was granted permission to make a personal explanation. He said that Edwin D. Robbins, counsel for the New Haven road, whom he termed the "king of lobbyists," had made a veiled threat that if he, Atwater, did not help the Consolidated Railway Company kill the petition of the East Haven & Morris Cove Railroad, the bill for a charter for the Meriden, Middletown & Guilford Railroad, in which the Senator is interested, would be killed.

Senator Atwater, after denouncing Mr. Robbins, demanded that the halls of the Legislature be purged of his presence.

The Meriden, Middletown and Guilford petition was then before the Senate on a favorable report of the Committee on Railroads. Senator Thompson moved that it be recommitted for further hearings. Senator Judson said such a course never had been taken. He did not like the looks of it; it was a sinister act and called for condemnation, he said. Said Senator Judson:

Says Members Caught Like Flies.

"There is not a legislator who has not been aware that Mr. Robbins was sent here to do the work of a lobbyist and that the Board of Education room was being used like a spider's web to catch other stray flies. In three weeks he has issued and sent forth his ultimatum and conquered different members of the General Assembly."

Many of the other Senators took part in the debate, and after an appeal to senatorial courtesy the bill was recommitted, 22 to 11. After this most of the other trolley matters were passed.

GATES TO KEEP NEAR TICKER

NEW YORK, May 9.—John W. Gates is already repenting his determination to keep away from the stock market, according to a number of brokers.

Mr. Gates, it is said, has taken office room in one of the brokerage houses which has taken over one of the branch offices of Charles G. Gates & Co., and has notified the members of the house that he will be on hand on or about September 1.

TOWN DRY BY COLLEGE RUSE

Special to the Boston American.

NORWICH, Vt., May 9.—Because he did not want Dartmouth college students to drink liquor in this town, which voted license this year, a Dartmouth college professor applied for a license, paid the fee and was granted the only one allowed the town. Citizens who voted for liquor are indignant and are looking up the legal aspect of the case.

LEAVES FUND TO AID POOR.

The will of Elihu T. Underhill, of Winthrop, filed in the probate office, contained public bequests aggregating $13,000. He left $500 to the deacons of the Clarendon Street Baptist Church, the income to be used for the support of the poor.

DOUGLAS TO PLEAD TODAY

NEW YORK, May 9.—William O. Douglas, the assistant loan clerk of the Trust Company of America, indicted on three counts of grand larceny yesterday, appears in Court of General Sessions to plead today.

The charges against Douglas as the grand jury found are these:

That in March he stole sixty-one 5 per cent. bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad; that on April 10 he stole a 100-share certificate of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company, and that on Feb. 20 he stole forty bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific. The total value of the securities stolen aggregated $86,150.

LUCE BOOMED FOR GOVERNOR

Representative Robert Luce, of Somerville, was introduced to the 400 members and guests of the Tremont Temple Men's League, at the second annual ladies' night, held in Lorimer Hall, last evening, by President Frank F. McLeod, as the man who is next in line for the governorship. Mr. Luce was unable to speak for several minutes, so great was the uproar.

"Coming fresh from the field of defeat, in failing to put through the public opinion bill, I did not expect any such welcome," said Mr. Luce.

"The question of the passing of the public opinion bill will keep on being raised, and some day we will win a decisive victory over our opponents."

NO MIDNIGHT WEDDING FOR US, SAYS COREY

Declares Story That He and Miss Gilman Feared "Thirteenth Hoodoo" Groundless.

SPENDS DAY WITH FIANCEE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, May 9.—William E. Corey denied to-day that his marriage to Miss Mabelle Gilman will be a midnight wedding. When told that such a story had been printed, and that according to it the ceremony is to be held fifteen minutes after 12 o'clock on the morning of May 14, so as to avoid the proverbially unlucky thirteenth, the steel king shook his head.

"Like most of the other stories printed about us, it is untrue—all untrue," he said. But he would not discuss the wedding further.

Puts In Day at Business.

For the first time since her arrival from abroad Miss Gilman had cause to worry Tuesday over his absence. Informed by the directors of the Steel Trust that, even at such a period, he ought to give his office the light of his presence at least for a few hours each day, Mr. Corey gave his entire attention for that day to the affairs of his business. Miss Gilman and her mother plainly could not understand his absence, but late in the afternoon he called up and explained matters and said he was then hurrying through the last items of his day's toil in order to be with them for dinner.

By the way of making up for his absence, Mr. Corey spent most of that evening in the Gilman apartment yesterday, he had lapsed entirely back into the throes of his romance. Mr. Corey spent the greater part of the day with his bride-to-be, either at the Hotel Gotham or riding or walking in the parks.

Annoyed by Crowd of Boys.

Late in the afternoon, with Miss Gilman, her mother and Mary Shaw, he entered a carriage and was driven up Broadway to Columbus Circle.

There, with his fiancee, he alighted and began a stroll northward. Small boys evidently recognized the couple from the newspaper pictures, and followed them, much to the annoyance of the steel magnate, who finally hailed another carriage and, entering with Miss Gilman, drove away.

THEATRE MAN SKIPS TOWN

Special to the Boston American.

CONCORD, N. H., May 9.—When Theodore Abrahams, erstwhile manager of the "Theatre Comique," on School street, comes back to Concord there will be a number of local people on hand to welcome him. Abrahams, who gave his residence as Campello, Mass., left the city suddenly without informing his employes, his landlord and his creditors.

Abrahams came to this city two weeks ago, and renting a store in the insurance block on School street, installed a moving picture machine.

Abrahams paid his salaries the first week and his business was good. It was estimated that he took in at least $200 last Saturday. He postponed dealing out to his men their weekly stipend, saying that he would do so Monday, and making elaborate plans for the show this week. He folded his tents on Monday afternoon, and those who were on hand for the entertainment that night were disappointed.

ACTRESS DEFIES "13" HOODOO.

Mabelle Gilman has turned deaf ear to appeals of some superstitious friends to change date set for wedding to W. E. Corey. The excellent photo here given is from the studio of Otto Sarony.

DEAN WRIGHT OF YALE TO RETIRE

NEW HAVEN, May 9.—Professor Henry P. Wright, dean of the academic department of Yale University, has announced his intention of retiring at the end of the college year.

STRUCK IN BACK; 7-YEAR-OLD GIRL DIES

As the result of a blow in the back received while at play at school last Thursday, Gladys Sullivan, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sullivan of Linden, died at her home on Lynn street yesterday.

BUCKETSHOP SLAUGHTER LOOKS EASY

Champions of the anti-bucketshop bill, when they went to the State Senate to-day for final action on the Logan-Valey measure, could not quite define their own frames of mind. The downing of the Senator Taft amendments without a protest from the Worcester man, and the ordering of the bill to a third and final reading without so much as a stand-up-and-be-counted procedure, seemed to have put the friends of the bill more than ever on their guard.

When the most outspoken opponents of the anti-gambling bill "laid down" yesterday, at one of the most important stages of legislation, it was at once proclaimed by the wise men in the galleries and the corridors that the bucket shops, while they had made their customary argument, hadn't spoken loud enough.

Republican Senators who had been flirting with the opposition and had asked them if they supposed his inaugural message of only four short months ago to be merely an essay or an English composition.

"I meant just what I said," the Governor is said to have declared, "and that is that the bucket shop should be driven out of Massachusetts."

In spite of which report, howsomever, a young man close to the bucket shop speculators said, decisively: "Huh! Wait!"

WELLESLEY GIRLS FIGHT FIRE SET BY THIEVES

PREPARATORY STUDENTS SAVE DANA HALL FROM FLAMES AT MIDNIGHT.

Fifteen brave girls, attired in night clothes and armed with pails and brooms, successfully battled with flames that threatened to destroy their dormitory, Dana Hall, a fashionable boarding school, at Wellesley College, early yesterday morning.

That the fire was set by thieves is believed by the college authorities, for the flames issued from the basement, where a pile of shavings had been set ablaze. Two men fled from the basement when the inmates gave the alarm of fire.

The young women were awakened by volumes of smoke rolling up through the halls and into bedroom transoms. There was a small panic, until the cooler heads got together and, with pails of water, brooms and mops, started for the basement.

"Let's not let 'em burn Dana Hall!" was the cry, and not waiting to don their street clothes, and most of them clad only in pajamas, the impromptu fire-fighters formed a bucket brigade and went to work.

When the flames, which had eaten their way around a window sill and were fast creeping up to the first floor, were finally put out there was a tired and hysterical squad of Wellesley girls. No one thought to summon help from the fire department. Every one thought only of saving "dear old Dana Hall."

The dormitory is located on Grove street, and is in charge of Miss Helen Miner. It is a two and one-half story wooden building. Miss Helen Temple Cook is principal of the preparatory school. The fire loss yesterday was not large.

MALDEN ELKS HOLD LADIES' NIGHT

Malden lodge of Elks held its first ladies' night last evening. The committee in charge consisted of John A. Powers, Waldo P. Reed, John L. Webber, Daniel F. Damon, H. Warren Butler, William H. Crostan, William Niedner, Leverett B. Holden, John B. Twomey and William J. Pelissier. A pleasing entertainment included selections by the orchestra, vocal solos by Miss Bessie L. Holden, readings by Thomas P. Riley, bass solo by J. O. H. Johnson and violin solos by Miss Elsie Coombs.

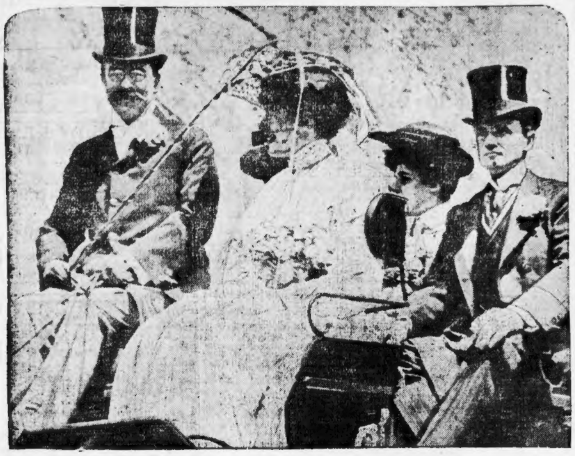
A REAL CARNEGIE WHO TRIED TO DIE POOR

Snapshot of the late James Henry Smith driving a coach, a part of the effort to be unsurpassed in display and extravagance.



Great Secret in Silent Smith's Career Is at Last Revealed.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Though George G. Mason, the chief beneficiary under the will of "Silent" Smith, was in New York he did not attend the meeting to-day of most of the heirs who gathered at the office of the estate's lawyer, Herman S. Le Roy, to talk the situation over.

The absence of Mason lent color to the persistent report that the will is to be contested, and that an effort will be made by some of the less fortunate relatives to gain possession of some at least of the $18,000,000 left outright to the nephews. Nothing of the result of the conference could be learned at its end. The lawyer refused even to tell whether the chief legatees had been invited to attend.

But evidently if the will is contested the widow will not be a party. Though she receives only a paltry $3,000,000 from the $22,000,000 estate her husband left, Mrs. Smith said positively yesterday she would not attempt to increase her share.

"I shall not contest my husband's will," she said, "and I will say, further, that there exists no reason for a contest by any member of Mr. Smith's family."

When asked if the inference to be drawn from the last part of this statement was that other heirs are likely to contest, the widow pleaded her illness as an excuse for saying nothing more. If the will were broken Mrs. Smith's share of the redistributed estate would amount to upwards of $10,000,000.

Gave Away $27,000,000 While Living Without Letting Any One Know It.

Stories that the fortune left him by his English uncle must have shrunk more than half under "Silent" Smith's management were discredited yesterday by the statement of an executor, who declared that Smith gave away more than $28,000,000 to relatives and friends during his lifetime.

"He did not want to die a multi-millionaire," this man said. "He wanted to see that part of his fortune that he couldn't make use of himself employed legitimately in business, and so he started out all his kith on the road to wealth. He was a very generous man, as many charitable societies also know."

WALL STREET POKES FUN AT RYAN'S DREAM

NEW YORK, May 9.—Thomas F. Ryan's reported ambition to be President is the occasion of much irreverent mirth on Wall street.

A gentleman who happened to pass the office of E. H. Harriman during the morning was willing to make oath that he heard somebody within crying "Wow, wow, wow!" over and over again.

Wonder at Harriman's Levity.

A rumor on the Stock Exchange was that Mr. Harriman had declared that if Ryan even put a finger forth to get the Democratic nomination he would shave off his goatee and wear a red necktie the rest of his life. It was impossible to confirm this.

Wall street found it hard to understand why Mr. Harriman should be anything else than serious under the circumstances, in view of the fact that he, himself, had admited that he doesn't know where he stands.

There were no public statements issued from the offices of Kuehn, Loeb & Co., or the house of J. P. Morgan concerning the Presidential aspirations of Mr. Ryan. August Belmont was silent, also, and this was a great disappointment, for it was anticipated by many who recognize the important position which he holds in the Democratic ranks, that an expression of opinion from him would be most valuable.

From an authoritative quarter it was learned that Mr. Belmont was considering the advisability of issuing a monograph in praise of Mr. Ryan and his abilities as a financier and with particular regard to Mr. Ryan's achievement in watering the local traction corporations for $108,000,000.

Funny, Says H. H. Rogers.

Henry H. Rogers, who has helped Mark Twain perpetrate many a joke on the Standard Oil Company, heard of the ambition of Mr. Ryan of Virginia yesterday, just as he was going up the gangplank of the White Star liner Baltic, bound for Europe.

"Who? Tom Ryan wants to be President? Not Tom? Well, who sprung that? Well, well, well! Will wonders never cease? It's funny, though, isn't it? That's really very funny."

CHILDREN TO ACT IN COSTUME PARTY

Hundreds of children will gather at the Columbus Club, Dorchester, next Saturday afternoon to take part in the "children's costume party," which is to be given by the wives of the members of the Mount Bowdoin Council.

The committee of mothers, under the direction of Mrs. Manus J. Fish, have arranged many unique features for the party for the delight of the children, and the general interest displayed assures the success of the affair. More than 1,000 children are expected to attend.

MAD DOG ATTACKS FIVE MEN AND GIRL

SNAPSHOT MAN IS ON TREMONT STREET TODAY

With a dubious glance at the overcast sky, the BOSTON AMERICAN snapshot man started out this noon on his second trip to take $10 pictures of Boston people.

His route lay along Tremont street, in the neighborhood of the shopping district, where Bostonians are to be found in promising throngs any week day.

The snapshot man went looking for likely subjects for his camera, just as he did last week. The city is familiar now with what the snapshot man did on his first trip. He took several pictures along Washington street. From these he selected ten. These ten were published in the last issue of the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN, with the announcement that the originals of these pictures would receive $10 if they were fully identified at the office of the BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 82 Summer street.

The plan made an instantaneous hit. Eight out of the ten photographs were identified the very next day and the snapshot man received many thanks from the delightful originals of the pictures.

The snapshot man takes old and young, men and women, rich and poor, selecting no particular class or quality of people. He is very democratic, only wishing to make his pictures representative of Boston people.

Get a BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN next Sunday and see if your picture is published in the "Snapshot Ten." It may mean $10 for you.

FORGIVENESS FOR YOUNG ELOPERS

TAUNTON, May 9.—State Detective Hodges has located Alice Fritsche, aged 17, and Frank Wood, aged 19, who eloped from their home in Perryville. The girl's parents objected to the match and last Friday they ran away. It is probable that they will be blessed and forgiven when they return.

SEE BURST OF FIRE LEAP FROM OCEAN

LORIENT, France, May 9.—Several trawlers report the observance of an extraordinary phenomenon at sea which would appear to have been a submarine volcano eruption. Bright flames and intense smoke, they declare, rose from the midst of the sea.

GOVERNOR FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA?

WASHINGTON, May 9.—After struggling along for nearly a quarter of a century with three commissioners at the head of its government, the District of Columbia found out to-day through the wisdom of James Bronson Reynolds, the President's official investigator, that it had been making a mistake. What it should have is a governor, possibly one who has served successfully as mayor of some large city.

Reynolds has been investigating conditions in the district for many months at the suggestion of the President and has embodied his suggestions in a written report made public at the White House today. Summarized, the recommendations are:

The extension of the civil service to cover all minor offices in the District of Columbia.

The creation of the office of Governor at a salary of $10,000

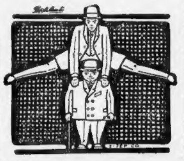
The creation of departments of health, police and fire, buildings and public works, street engineering, charities, corrections and housing and labor, to be conducted by commissioners at salaries of $5,000.

A citizens' committee of 100 to represent all general civic interests.

The President has not yet taken any action upon the recommendations.

The highest-grade, lowest-priced clothing that bears the Union Label is Morse-made.

If it's at Morse's, it's correct. If it's correct, it's at Morse's.



Not every man who happens to be stouter, or taller, or shorter than the average individual is satisfied to pay a tailor's extra prices in order to get fitted.

We're in a position to know this, for our dep't of extra sizes is a favorite with just these kind of men who recognize the completeness of our provisions for clothing them.

In addition to our stock of regular sizes, 34 to 44, we carry "stouts," 36 to 44, "longs," 35 to 42 (all at $10 to $35), "shorts," 34 to 40, at $13.50 to $25, and extra sizes, "regulars" and "stouts," 46 to 50, at $16.50 to $25.

Yes, they're Morse-made.

What kind of a tie would you wear with a Prince Albert Frock Coat? Our booklet tells. Send for it.

HUNT ESCAPED WIFE-SLAYER

MIDDLEBORO, May 9.—Grasping an opportunity when his guard was in conversation with a dentist, to whom he had been brought, George Nagle, an inmate of the ward for the criminal insane at Bridgewater, who was transferred there from Taunton two years ago, where he was committed for slaying his wife with an axe in East Dedham in 1891, slipped away and made his escape. Posses are now searching for him. Nagle is said to be harmless while sober, but may be dangerous if he takes to drink. While in Taunton, he was paroled and ran away, but returned of his own accord.

HEROINE SAVES BABY BROTHER

Cool headed in a fire panic which affected the 150 occupants of the tenement house at No. 18 Pitts street yesterday, little eleven-year-old Annie Spinale proved herself a heroine by grabbing up her little baby brother, whom she was rocking to sleep on the sixth floor, and dashing through the dense smoke with him to safety in the street while older women feared to venture down the stairs. Four women were overcome by smoke, which was very thick, although the fire was extinguished with a loss of about $100.

BRIGHTON SORE ON HOME WEEK

Brighton residents are wondering to-day how they are going to come out on their plans for the Brighton Centennial and Old Home Week celebration, now that Mayor Fitzgerald says he cannot promise any money for the district. Residents of Brighton, who were figuring on a nice celebration plum, are sore to-day.

The Mayor told a mass meeting in the old Brighton courthouse last night that he could not promise any sum of money because he had not the money with which to do so.

TWO MORE HITS BY REMICK FIRM

Jerome H. Remick & Co., the music publishers of Detroit and New York, who have made a strong bid for a niche in the Hall of Fame by publishing "Hiawatha" and "Silver Heels," have recently scored two more successes by the prompt New England popularity of "San Antonio" and "I Had Rather Two-Step Than Waltz, Bill."

They are hummed and whistled all over Boston these days. Benjamin Hapgood Burt wrote the words of "I had Rather Two-Step Than Waltz, Bill," while Williams and Val Alstyne were the authors of "San Antonio."

Kind Words Cost Nothing, Yet They Are Beyond Price

By Beatrice Fairfax

WHAT a pity it is that so many kind words are left unspoken.

It comes quite naturally to some people to make gracious, pretty speeches; to others it seems almost impossible.

It is not, perhaps, that they do not feel kindly, but they do not seem able to clothe their thoughts in speech.

But none of us say half as many pleasant things as we should.

Most of us have lost some dear one and gone through agonies of regret over unsaid words. We feel that we should have told them every day how dear they were; have missed no chance of saying loving words to them.

Self-consciousness keeps many of us from saying all the nice things that we might. We are afraid of appearing ridiculous or being accused of sentimentality.

One thing, however, is very certain, and that is that people do not tire of hearing kind words.

Criticism Is Easy

DO not be sparing of words of praise. Criticism comes only too readily, but we are inclined to be very stingy when it comes to praise.

Supposing one of your girl friends is wearing a becoming dress and looking her best. Tell her so if it will make her feel happy, and the consciousness of having pleased some one will make you happy also.

When you hear a nice thing said about one of your friends take pains to repeat it to her, and take equal pains to forget any unkind remarks you hear about her.

The wise employer appreciates the value of praise and does not neglect to praise his employes for work well done.

Even the babies in kindergarten will do better work for a little praise.

Most especially I advise the girls to make loving, appreciative speeches to their mothers. Remember, girls, that all your devotion and attention can never pay the debt that every girl owes her mother.

The wonderful thing about mothers is that they never demand the love and attention that they are entitled to. To their dying day they will continue to lavish that wealth of love whether it brings any return or not.

Kind to Mother

NOTHING pleases a mother so much as a little attention from her big son or daughter. The trouble is that sons and daughters go out into the world and are apt to grow very far away from the old home and mother.

How many of you who are living away from home remember to write to your mother every week? And if you do write do you tell her how you would love to see her and let her know how deep your affection for her is?

She never forgets you; you may be quite sure of that. Your letters are a keen pleasure to her, and not a day passes but she thinks of you and prays for your welfare.

Try to speak kind words to every one, but, most of all, remember to speak them to your mother.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

A DOUBTFUL CASE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man twenty-one years of age and am engaged to be married to a young lady two years my junior.

Now, Miss Fairfax, there are some people telling me that they did not like her conduct in her younger age, and at times she does not act very well while in my presence. I also hear that she goes out automobile riding with other fellows. I will take your advice what to do, as I am deeply in love with her, but I do not think she returns my love.

ANXIOUS.

IF she does not love you and you do not approve of her conduct and know that others feel the same way it seems to me that you stand a doubtful chance of being happy with her. Perhaps you might have some influence with her if you told her that you hated to see her behave in that way, and that others had noticed and spoken of it to you.

TELL HIM THE TRUTH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl of seventeen and have been keeping company with a young man eighteen years of age for the past seven months. Now, this young man thinks a good deal of me, and has told me of his love and asked if my love was returned. I gave him no answer, as I did not know what to say and am very bashful.

Now, Miss Fairfax, this young man is to go out West next month and says he wants an answer before he goes. What I want to know is, what shall I tell him, as I love him dearly and would not like to have him go away angry?

C. H.

IF you love him tell him so the next time he asks you. Surely you are not too bashful for that. Of course he wants your answer before he goes away and you are very foolish if you don't give it to him.

CURRIED MACARONI

BOIL one cup of macaroni broken into half-inch lengths in boiling salted water until tender; drain, rinse in cold water and drain again. Cook half a small onion in two tablespoons of butter for five minutes, taking care that it does not brown. Skim out the onion, stir in two tablespoons of flour, one tablespoon of curry powder, half a teaspoon of salt and a little pepper; then, when well blended add one cup of milk and stir until smooth and creamy. Add the macaroni, heat thoroughly and serve.

TOMATO CREAM TOAST

MAKE sauce of three tablespoons of butter. When melted add three tablespoons of flour, pinch of salt, and stir in gradually one and one-half cups of stewed and strained tomato to which has been added one-fourth of a teaspoon of soda. Then add half a cup of scalded cream or milk. Pour over the toast and serve as soon as made.

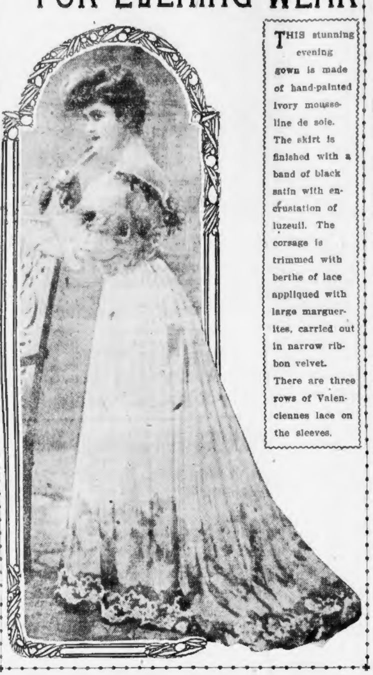
The Boston American Spring and Summer Catalogue for 1907 Is Now Ready

THIS catalogue contains between 400 and 500 of the very latest designs for ladies', misses' and children's garments, also illustrated lessons on the making of fine lingerie and baby clothes, including the various embroidery stitches now in use and the fancy stitches employed in the finishing of hand-made garments. To obtain this book send 10 cents in money or stamps to the BOSTON AMERICAN PATTE[illegible] P. O. Box 230, Boston.

STYLISH NEW GOWN FOR EVENING WEAR



THIS stunning evening gown is made of hand-painted ivory mousseline de soie. The skirt is finished with a band of black satin with encrustation of luzeuil. The corsage is trimmed with berthe of lace appliqued with large marguerites, carried out in narrow ribbon velvet. There are three rows of Valenciennes lace on the sleeves.

Good Things for Mothers to Know

GIVE baby quite a tiny pillow. The head really needs to be raised very little indeed, and to get into a habit of sleeping with it very high is very bad.

Give castor oil in this way: Take a small tumbler and squeeze into it about a tablespoonful of orange juice, next pour in the oil, then add more of the juice.

The oil will form a globule in the centre of the juice, and can generally be swallowed without being detected.

Children under two years of age should on no account be allowed to eat meat unless it be very finely minced, and even then only sparingly. Good gravy or beef tea, however, may be given in the middle of the day for dinner, with a little vegetable finely bruised down in it.

Young girls are sometimes rather lazy and inclined to lead a sedentary life. When this is the case they should be encouraged to take up some kind of sport or outdoor exercise. Games, such as tennis, hockey and badminton—played in moderation—are excellent for growing girls, and do much to strengthen the muscles and develop the figure.

Fencing is quite the best exercise for giving suppleness to a figure inclined to be "woodeny."

Sometimes, especially in hot weather or when over-excited, children find it impossible to go to sleep directly they are put to bed.

When this is the case—instead of scolding the little wide-awake—it is a good plan to rearrange the bed clothes, they generally get very hot and uncomfortable when the child has tossed and turned for some time, and turn and shake up the pillow.

Women Need Backbone in Dealing With Their Domestic Problems

Is the Spineless Mother Responsible for the Lawlessness of Our American Boys and Girls

DOROTHY DIX

THE greatest need of this country is for strong-minded, strong-handed women, with sufficient grit to enable them to manage their own children; and if one could offer up one prayer more pious and patriotic than another, it would be:

"Lord, send us mothers with enough backbone to deal as they should with the American girl and boy."

If that prayer has ever been uttered, it has been answered only in sparse and widely scattered cases, and the very name of the American child is a byword and a hissing abroad and a terror at home.

Nowhere else in civilization are children so rude, so noisy, so utterly lacking in all respect for age, position or the rights of others as in this land of the free and home of the unchastened child.

Abstractly we all adore childhood. We spend thousands of dollars on pictures of beautiful cherubs; we go to see drivelling plays that affect to picture childhood, and we weep our eyes out over stories of Tiny Tims and little Pauls and little Lord Fauntleroys.

Different in Real Life

In real life, it is far otherwise. The actual child, as one knows it, is such an ill reared little brute, such an incarnate demon and vandal, that desirable hotels and apartment houses refuse it admission, and we would sooner face an attack of the smallpox than a visitation from a friend who brings her olive branches with her.

Whose fault is this? The mothers. The weak, backboneless mother, who hasn't the strength to stand up and fight it out round by round with the strong-willed, high-tempered, determined little creature who is defying her and the world.

Nobody is foolish enough to suppose that a gentle, refined lady approves of her boys howling like Comanches through an apartment hallway, disturbing every one in earshot.

Nobody dreams that a woman who is fastidiously considerate of other people's rights instigated her son to write his name on your best mahogany table with a pin, or smear a licorice stick over your choice portfolio of etchings.

Gives Up Easily

Oh, dear, no. Such a woman would be incapable of committing such atrocities, and she grieves at her children being guilty of them, but she wails out that she cannot help it. John is so hard-headed! Mary is so high-spirited. Tom has such a temper!

And she throws up her hands and gives up the fight and leaves the most important job any woman ever tackles to be settled by pure luck.

It cannot be repeated too often that it is the supine woman, too, who is responsible for all the hoodlum boys and girls who are growing up.

If we had mothers who would weep and pray over their children less and spank more, we shouldn't need so many juvenile courts to try to do the reforming that the parents should have done in the first place. If you will investigate the subject you will find that almost without exception it is the flabby, weak mothers who raise up the men who are criminals and failures in life, while the men who do something worth while in the world are the sons of women of backbone and muscle, who rule their families with a strong hand. Every great man has had a great mother.

Mothers of Great Men

Washington's mother was a woman of unusual force of character.

Lee's was even accused of being strong-minded by her enemies and detractors.

Lincoln's youth was dominated by a woman of masculine intellect and determination.

Grant's mother was a strong, silent woman, who shouldered the burden of the family support.

Carnegie's mother was an indomitable old Scotch peasant woman, who scraped together the money to pay her family's passage to America to seek fortune in a foreign land, and I know one millionaire who loves to tell of how his mother, a proud old grand dame, who was left a widow with a houseful of children and a barren farm, used to lock the door to keep people from finding out how poor they were and that they had nothing but mush and milk to eat, sometimes for weeks at a time. But she held her children with a grip of iron in their old social sphere.

She never permitted them to even complain of their deprivations, and never for an instant did she cease rearing before them the ideals of success that she expected them to attain.

Bound to Win Out

The children of women like these are bound to win out in life. They have had a superior officer who has drilled courage, energy, purpose and fidelity to duty and self-control into them in their childhood, and they are ready to step out of the ranks and became commanders of the undisciplined rabble that weak women are sending out to the battle of life that some way—well or ill, fortunately or disastrously—every one of us must fight.

I am aware that the idea of a mother with a backbone won't be popular, and it isn't poetic. Not a poet has sung it. Not a story writer mentions it in any tear-compelling romance about mother, home and heaven.

If artificial vertebrae were for sale in the department stores I doubt if any merchant could make them a leader for a bargain sale.

They call for too much effort on a woman's part. They force her to assume responsibility instead of shoving the blame on Providence when things go wrong in a family. They demand that she mete out justice instead of pouring out pity on her children.

Easy to Be Sympathetic

And it's so dead easy to be sympathetic, and a poultice probably has fewer qualms of conscience than any other created thing. It's a heap less fatiguing to say, "poor, dear little Johnny has such a temper," when Johnny is raising the neighborhood with his howls, than it is to take the business side of a hairbrush and chastise Johnny into a decent regard for other people's rights and a strength of mind that will enable him to control his temper. But the matter doesn't end there.

Some day Johnny, man grown, gets into a rage, and because his mother didn't have the backbone to force him to control his temper when he was young, he kills in blind fury, and the world calls it murder.

It isn't a pretty thought, but it is a hard, cruel, true one that the spineless members are accessory before the crime for nine-tenths of the murders and thefts that fill our penetentiaries.

Of course we modern women feel that Solomon was a poor, feeble-minded creature compared to us, but he had a few mighty serviceable ideas about how to raise children.

And Solomon preached in season, and out of season, the cult of the backbone in parents.

HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL

PERSPIRATION OF FEET

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Please give me a remedy for excessive perspiration of the feet. J. T.

BATHE the feet well every night, dry thoroughly and apply the following mixture: One ounce of oxide of zinc ointment and four drops of carbolic acid. In the morning bathe again, dry thoroughly and dust with the following powder: Pulverized starch, two ounces; tanic acid, one-half ounce. This should relieve the trouble.

BLACKHEADS, PIMPLES

DEAR PROFESSOR:

I am greatly troubled with blackheads and would be thankful if you would suggest something for their relief. Will you also kindly tell me how much the prescription will cost?

DOROTHY.

USE the complexion brush with good castile soap and hot water once a day to clear the pores as much as possible from the accumulation which forms the blackheads. Apply the following witch hazel soap: Tincture of green soap, two ounces; distilled witch hazel, two ounces. Let this stay on for only a few minutes, when it should be washed off with hot water. Then rub the face gently with a cheese cloth towel, after which close the pores with a dash of cold water. At night apply a good face cream, massaging it gently into the skin. If the green soap irritates the skin much use it only every other day. I cannot tell you exactly what the ingredients will cost, as different druggists have different prices, but the prescription is inexpensive. Green soap is about the consistency of the old fashioned "soft soap" and is not green at all.

PREMATURE WRINKLES

DEAR PROFESSOR:

I am only thirty, but judging from the wrinkles and hollow cheeks I look to be fifty. Please tell me of something that will fill out the hollows and strengthen up my loose and flabby skin. Will cocoa butter and lanoline cause a growth of hair?

ANXIOUS INQUIRER.

IT is quite possible that your digestion needs looking after. See to that first; eat plenty of fattening food, don't worry over anything, and your face will fill out more quickly. Massage with a fattening cream gently and with a rotary motion all over the face; pat the face gently, apply cold water after having steamed it and massaged it well, thus making it firm. Then apply this lotion, which will act as an astringent: Alum, sixty grains; thick almond milk, one and one-half ounces; rosewater, six ounces. Mix thoroughly and apply, allowing it to dry on the face. Do this at night, and in the morning, instead of applying water to the face, cleanse it with a cleansing cream. Do not use cocoa butter or lanoline on the face.

(Will "Garnet X." please read answer to "Anxious Inquirer" for information which she desires?)

"THE HERITAGE OF HATE"

By Elizabeth Purcell

Synopsis

CLAUDIA WINGATE'S father dies in Bellevue, accusing himself of being a murderer. He has just been told of his daughter's engagement to Aubrey Heath, younger son of an English baron, who has lived all his life in America, and is heir to Heath Hall. Six weeks later the young couple wed at Bellevue, where Claudia is a nurse. Francis Heath is terribly angry at them, and bitter against Claudia, but after her two children are born he invites them to visit him in New York. Mysterious shrieks rend the night, and Francis wildly curses Claudia.

Francis and Aubrey quarrel and Francis tells Claudia her father murdered his uncle and fled from England. Aubrey follows Francis into the grounds, and Claudia, in search of her husband, stumbles over something in the path.

Instead of the damp earth, her fingers encountered a glossy substance that the woman instinctively knew was the white shirt front of a man in evening dress lying face upward in the path.

With a scream of terror Claudia stumbled to her feet. Her first thought was of her husband, and again she knelt over the body, peering into the face faintly outlined against the frosty earth.

Again a shriek of terror reached the inmates of the house as she recognized it as the face of Francis Heath, already cold in death.

The contorted features bore a look of awful horror, and as Claudia's eyes became accustomed to the uncertain light she could see that a jeweled dagger was buried to the hilt in his breast.

Almost frantic from fright, the woman sped dizzily on, voiceless, gasping, her whole soul revolting in horror from the sight she had witnessed.

As she reached the entrance the door was opened wide and her husband appeared in the entrance.

Her husband deserts her, and she is tried for murder and convicted. Seventeen years later Rector Harding, of St. Simons, meets his son, Dr. Alfred, on the way to the hospital. The second wife of Aubrey Heath and Pauline, the daughter of Claudia, pass in carriages.

Alfred goes to the hospital.

"MERCY! Mercy!" panted Higgs anew. His voice came with a choking gurgle, for the chloroform cloth was over his face. With his left hand he tore it away. He felt his voice failing, his senses sinking into torpor; the physical pain of his injured arm hurt him less. He struggled frantically against the deadly influence. "For the sake of my wife; for——"

"Let me examine his arm," a clear, rich voice said earnestly, breaking in as with sudden music upon tumult of the scene.

All those present looked up. Sister Rachel stood beside the patient, a noble figure in her gray dress and white apron and cap, with quiet authority expressed in her attitude and in every line of her still handsome face.

The house surgeon regarded her request with evident annoyance. He hated to be interrupted or delayed in work such as he now exultingly contemplated.

Especially was he annoyed and restful when the person who ventured to interfere was not a colleague, but a mere nurse—a woman working under his superintendence.

"Let me look as the arm," she repeated. No one demurred, and stepping closer still to the operating table, she bent over the almost shattered limb and scrutinized it closely. There was silence while she thus scanned it, a silence imposed by her mere presence; even the wretched patient ceased his moaning and watched her with suspended breathing and desperate, agonized eyes.

Her beautiful, haggered face had a deep pity written upon it. The wretched Higgs saw this pity and seemed to understand that in it there lay his last hopes.

"Sister! Sister!" he implored her. "Don't let them cut off my arm! I'd as soon be dead as to lose it. Life's no good to me without it. My wife and children will starve. There's two of them—two very little ones—and another coming soon."

His despairing voice broke as he uttered the last words.

Sister Rachel lifted her head and looked at the surgeons. There were tears in her splendid eyes.

"I am convinced that his arm can be saved, Dr. Musson," she said in a quiet but very firm voice. "Will you let me try to save it?"

The crimson of a sudden anger darkened the surgeon's face. An exclamation of impatience burst from him.

"Are you mad?" he cried, harshly. "I tell you, as I've told the others, that it's an impossibility—a sheer impossibility. Mortification is sure to set in before long. Nothing but amputation can save the man's life."

Sister Rachel turned to Higgs, bending upon him the tender, winning smile that came at times like sunshine upon her sad, dark face.

One Last Hope

"Would you be willing for me to try to save your arm?" she asked him. "There is risk in the attempt, as the doctor says; but you are healthy, and I believe all will go well if you let me try."

Half choking with grateful sobs, the poor fellow declared his willingness. He would let her do anything—would trust himself to her entirely—if only she would grant him the barest chance of keeping the arm whose work maintained his home.

With the hand that was not injured he clutched at her dress, beseeching her still to help him—to save him. And one or two of the older doctors, inspired by her courage came forward to support her.

Heedless of the wrath upon the house surgeon's face, Alfred Harding also advanced and added the weight of his opinion to theirs.

He knew well—none better—what this woman could do; he knew of what her great skill, and still greater devotion, were capable. Little by little, even during the brief six months of her connection with the Visitation Hospital, she had won for herself a reputation in the neighborhood as a woman in a thousand—a woman endowed at once with wonderful surgical skill, and with such an overflowing love and sympathy for her fellow-creatures as made even the lowest and worst among them speak her name with honor.

And he knew that, most of all, she struggled against the pitiless purpose of these doctors who sought to gain practice and experience by hasty and often needless operations, regardless of the bitter suffering and ruined future lives of their victims.

In fighting the battle of the helpless poor against those who would ruthlessly mutilate them in the pursuit of science, she had gained for herself the secret enmity of Dr. Musson. It was clear that that enmity was fast developing into malicious hatred, as now, at the appeal of his colleagues, he found himself forced to yield to her.

"Very well," he said angrily, "have your own way. If you choose to have the man's death upon your conscience, I shall not interfere. But remember, I wash my hands of him. Don't think I'm going to help you. The arm is yours and the responsibility is yours."

Sister Rachel bent her head.

The Responsibility

"I accept the responsibility," she answered, in a low but very firm tone.

The surgeon, however, did not hear the quietly spoken words. With his hard face crimson with mortification, he had stalked to the other end of the ward. To be thwarted in his cherished intention was bitter enough in itself, but to be thwarted by the calm will of this woman was bitterer still.

Even from the end of the ward, where he stood looking moodily out of the window, he heard the sobs of joy and gratitude of the relieved Higgs. The poor fellow was trembling from head to foot with the violence of emotion. Large, slow tears were rolling down his cheeks. He had for a moment forgotten even the physical torture which racked him. Words of frantic thanksgiving broke incoherently from his quivering lips.

"Heaven bless you, sister! You're the best and tenderest hearted woman living. Heaven bless you! My wife and my little ones shall thank you. As for me, if my life is granted me, I'll lay it down for you any day. I'd give it up for you now if there were need, and trust the feeding of the children to Providence."

The handsome woman, so strong in nerve yet so marvelously gentle, with her worn, haggard face and her strange, sorrow-haunted eyes, bent over him and laid her hand tenderly on his pain-drawn forehead.

"I am glad you trust me so well," she said softly.

Higgs caught her hand—a hand well shaped, but rough and work-worn—and reverently kissed it.

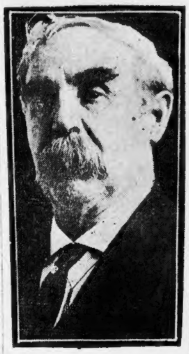
JOINS LEAGUE IN BATTLE ON CORRUPTION

Capt. Thomas Bates, Former Western Senator, Cuffs Republican Machine.

URGES VOTERS TO FOLLOW

Ex-Senator T. H. Bates Enrolls as League Recruit



Captain Thomas H. Bates, former State Senator of California, for several years a citizen of Boston and a large property owner in Roxbury, has changed his political enrollment as a Republican to that of a member of the Independence League.

In an interview with a reporter of the BOSTON AMERICAN, Captain Bates tells the reasons which impelled him to make this move. Captain Bates, who resides at No. 2 Savin street, said:

"Yes, I have enrolled myself as an Independence Leaguer. I did it of my own volition, and I will tell you how I did it and why I did it, and why thousands of others are doing it this year in this State. In Boston this change of enrollment must be made before the election commissioners, whose office is in the Old Court House, back of City Hall.

Corruption of Party Machine.

"I found absolutely no trouble in making the change. I told a clerk that I wished to change my political affiliations. He asked me to which party, and I told him the Independence League. He asked me from which party and I told him the Republican. He filled out a blank, handed it to me, and I signed my name. So much for the process.

"I had been a Republican ever since I began to vote. That was about thirty-five years ago. I have been an extensive traveler in the United States and I have noticed that in nearly all large cities that political corruption is so openly practised that I almost convinced myself that such a thing as honesty in elections in large cities is impossible.

"I have also been influenced to join the new party in this State on account of the defeat of the Public Opinion Bill. The spirit of that bill brought home to the people of the State the privileges and rights it was intended they should enjoy by the Constitution of the United States.

Public Opinion Bill's Defeat.

"The arguments made against the Public Opinion Bill indicated that an external influence had been brought to bear on its passage, aside from the Legislative body as a whole. The best arguments were clearly in favor of the passage of the bill. Its defeat is only another example of the many I have witnessed, all of which go to show that power is rapidly departing from the people.

"If the people would get their power back—if they would recover their rightful heritage—they must awake soon or they will find themselves enthralled. A new party organization is their only hope.

"I participated in the work of the Independence League at the last election. I was glad of the opportunity because, while most of my intimate political friends are identified with the Republican party, my convictions showed me a way to aid, by joining the Independence League, in the overthrow of the corrupt machine politics of which I had been a witness in this city.

Free From Machine Rule.

"The platform of principles of the league is worthy of the earnest consideration of any one and the honesty of purpose of every prominent person connected with the organization was amply manifested at the rousing convention held at Faneuil Hall. The character of the men who took part in that convention was such as to show that they were deeply sincere and free from entangling alliances with machinism and bossism.

"As to the strides that the Independence League has made, I want to say that, although I have been in many Republican demonstrations in the Pacific Coast States, I have never seen the enthusiasm manifested in connection with the League meetings surpassed by any party. When the brief time the organization has been in existence is considered, such enthusiasm must certainly emanate from a public sentiment against the two old parties and their corrupt methods.

"The Independence League has opened an avenue of escape from the two old parties where citizens, irrespective of whether they pay taxes on a million dollars or a hundred, will get a respectful hearing."

METEOR STUDY IN BALLOON.

Professor A. Lawrence Rotch, head of the Blue Hill Observatory at Hyde Park, is to conduct a series of aeronautic experiments in St. Louis this Fall. The experiments will be in the interests of meteorology.

ASCENSION DAY OBSERVED IN CHURCHES

The Feast of the Ascension was observed with masses and special exercises in all Catholic churches in the city to-day.

The most impressive feature of the exercises is the extinguishing of the Paschal candle, typifying the ascension of Christ to heaven after forty days on earth following the resurrection.

At the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, solemn high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock by the rector, Rev. John T. Mullen, D. C. L. Rev. John F. Crane, D. D., was deacon, Rev. Thomas R. McCoy, subdeacon, and Rev. Thomas McCormick, chancellor of the New England archdiocese, master of ceremonies.

Music was furnished by a mixed choir under the direction of Organist James Whelan, and the boys' sanctuary choir of sixty voices, directed by Rev. James Scanlan.

Devotions appropriate to the month of May are observed in all Catholic churches to-night.

POLICE CLOSE IN ON ELOPING RECTOR'S TRAIL

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., May 9.—The police are closing in on the trail of the Rev. Jere Knode Cooke and his companion, Miss Floretta Whaley, the young heiress with whom the missing rector of St. George's Church eloped.

District Attorney Coles has received word that a suitcase had been left in the Pennsylvania Railroad station in Jersey City on Saturday night by a girl who resembled Floretta Whaley.

When the girl reached the station she inquired of the ticket seller whether a man had left a ticket for her, and when informed that none had been left she seemed greatly disappointed.

For three hours she waited in the station, and then she left her suitcase behind, saying she would take it when she returned with her ticket. She did not say where she intended going, nor did she call for her baggage. Detectives are watching the baggage, and if the girl should be Floretta Whaley she will be arrested and brought back to her home.

Mrs. Cooke, the rector's wife, has left Hempstead, saying she will never return.

TWO KILLED IN CHICAGO WRECK

CHICAGO, May 9.—A Chicago, Burlington & Quincy passenger train is reported wrecked at Hamlin avenue. Two passengers were killed and several badly hurt. Six ambulances have gone to the scene.

Anty Drudge Advises the Commuter.

Mr. Suburbanite—"Missed my train! And not another one for an hour!"

Anty Drudge—"That's too bad. What was the matter? Clock stopped?"

Mr. Suburbanite—"No. It's the same thing every Monday morning. I never can get my breakfast till the last minute. Washboilers on the range and no room to cook breakfast."

Anty Drudge—"How silly. Tell your wife to use Fels-Naptha. Then she won't have any use for a washboiler. She need only rub the clothes with Fels-Naptha and soak them in a tub of cold or lukewarm water."

When you take medicine you go by the directions, don't you?

Well, that is just the way we want you to use Fels-Naptha soap—according to directions on the wrapper. You don't expect medicine to cure unless taken rightly, and you shouldn't expect Fels-Naptha to do everything claimed for it unless used in the way it is meant to be used. Given a chance, it will cure your wash-day ills.

Here is a prescription in the case of white clothes: Soap the clothes with Fels-Naptha, roll, soak in cold or lukewarm water 30 minutes, rub lightly, rinse and hang on the line. That's all. By all means don't boil the clothes or use hot water. Fels-Naptha was made to save you from the trouble of boiling, heating water and rubbing hard.

For washing colored clothes, flannels, and many other uses of Fels-Naptha, directions are printed on the red and green wrapper.

Here's where the Doves count a few scalps is the opinion of the fans in sizing up the comparative merits of the Hub team and that which Ned Hanlon has in tow from Cincinnati, and as often as they tie up at the South End grounds the westerners won't be looked at in the same window.

This afternoon the Porktown bunch will endeavor to make a better showing than on their first appearance, but the Doves have got a good start on them and will have to be brought up with a sharp turn before loosening up on any games in the series.

Hanlon's team doesn't appear as strong as a year ago, that is judging by their initial display, but they must have something up the sleeve else they wouldn't be disputing the Doves for the top of the second division. They may be able to uncork a few stunts that were missing yesterday.

The new youngsters on the team seem to be a willing lot, but will need plenty of education in the finer points before ready to tackle a championship problem.

It was the college boy, Pfeffer, who balked the Reds in the first skirmish and made a record performance of not allowing them a single hit, an event which is usually only seen once a season on the home grounds. While he was mowing them down his own team was punching the ball and the game was won, 6 to 0.

There will be a different story if Hanlon decides to send his best pitcher, Bob Ewing, to the rubber today. The tall slabbist with the whirligig curves and deceiving spitball is going some this year and has bumped the other teams.

It's up to Gus Dorner to match him, and the German is not averse to trying conclusions.

*Probable added starter.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Thirteen thoroughbreds, representing an aggregate value of $300,000, long hard days and many nights of anxious labor and the outlay of many times $300,000 in money, were named over night as starters in the $10,000 Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont Park this afternoon. In this psychic number of supposed fatality superstitious racegoers will see an ill omen for the players. All the same some forty thousand men and women will brave the bitter Belmont Park winds all bent on picking the winner of one of the most brilliant metropolitan renewals yet run.

With the running of the Metropolitan begins the real racing season. It is one of the few, even of the richest, stakes which society holds it necessary for one to see to be in good form. The thirteen hoodoo, if there is one, will most probably be broken by the addition at post time of Harry Payne Whitney's great Meddler mare Tanya. Last night every one in the Westbury set had the tip that the Whitney mare had worked well since her race at Jamaica last week and was certain to be a starter.

Davy Johnson's Roseben, endeared to racegoers by his sensational speed, the ease with which he shoulders steeplechase weights and the remarkable consistency with which he wins race after race, is a pronounced public favorite at 5 to 2. Followers of the turf will remember that Roseben has already established two world's records over this Belmont course, one at six furlongs, when he shouldered the prodigious weight of 147 pounds and ran in 1:11 3-5, and the other at seven furlongs, which he reeled off in 1:22 with 126 pounds in the saddle.

It must not be forgotten, however, that the Belmont Park track is perhaps the fastest in the world. Any reasonably fast horse is capable of making over this course what would be sensational time on any other track, and when Roseben made his record he broke in front, made all his pace at his own gait, without anything capable of pressing him at any stage.

In this afternoon's Metropolitan there is more than one horse capable of putting Roseben to his uttermost effort from first jump to last. And when this has been the case at distances beyond six furlongs Roseben has usually been beaten.

Quarterstretch News of Owners and Horses

Trainer Knap Foshner came up from Providence to see the fun. He says that Narragansett Park has been opened to the use of the trainers.

Walter May has sold his speedway trotter Pertine to a Mr. Ingraham of Lynnfield. "Happy Jack" Trout showed her a half in 1:05 on the day of the sale.

The giving of score cards free to the spectators made a hit. The cost to the Mets is more than made up through the compliments they receive on all sides.

Walter Cornett is thinking strongly of selling Wavelite. She has always been in the thickest of the fights on the speedway and will be missed in making up the trotting classes.

President W. E. Newbert of the Dorchesters was elated over the fact that the city of Boston has just begun work on the Franklin Field Speedway. It is now expected that the improvements will have been completed by Dorchester Day, June 8.

D. W. Holmes of Saybrooke, Ct., came up to see his bob-tailed trotter Kimberletta win. Last week Trout stepped her a quarter in 30¾ seconds. This means that she can tackle the best very soon.

M. A. Nevins feels sort of lonesome since selling his stable in Brookline street to A. W. Cushman. He hardly knows what his next move will be.

Jimmie Fitzgerald had a lemon handed him the second heat of Class F, as he had it all won by several lengths with Stately Action, but pulling him to a walk near the finish was caught napping. He claimed that Distance Judge Parker handed him the fruit by telling him to take back.

JACK O'BRIEN, LOSER OF FIGHT

O'Brien is Down and Out as a Top Notcher

BURNS TO MEET SQUIRES

By Boston American Leased Wire.

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—As a drawing card the fight between O'Brien and Burns turned out to be a disappointment, the receipts amounting to a trifle over $22,000. There were large gaps in the gallery, and many of the high-priced seats on the ground floor were not occupied by men holding coupons.

Burns will now be matched with Squires and the articles of agreement will be signed this afternoon, Barney Reynolds appearing for Squires. Burns came out of the fight with nothing but a slight bruise over the right eye, while O'Brien's face was slashed, especially about the eyes.

Manager McCarey is the man who declared all bets off. He instructed Eyton to make this announcement just before the gong rang. "I know the Los Angeles sporting people will believe me when I say I had very good reasons for calling off the bets," said McCarey. "I would rather do this than see a job put through. This would protect the public."

The O'Brien-Burns fight for the heavyweight championship was the sourest lemon ever handed to the sports in this country. But it proved that Tommy Burns can beat O'Brien on any day in the week, let him elect to fight any sort of battle in his repertoire.

It was the most disgusted crowd that ever assembled under shingles to witness a championship battle.

Referee Eyton advanced to the middle of the ring and said: "For sufficient reasons, I declare off all bets on this contest."

At the start Burns came in head down and arms working like pistons. O'Brien turned his back and sidled along the ropes, looking back over his shoulder like a scared rabbit. Before the fight was twenty seconds old the crowd began to hiss O'Brien and it never stopped throughout the evening. At the end of a minute of ineffective pursuit, Burns dropped his hands and began to fight. O'Brien put up his hands, crouched and advanced toward Burns. Burns met him. O'Brien turned tail and sprinted around the ring.

"Get out in a ten-acre lot," yelled O'Brien.

In the second round O'Brien stood up for about three seconds, and Burns was all over him, swinging blindly and with little direction. O'Brien clinched and Burns carried both men off their feet, O'Brien falling on his back and Burns sprawling over him. After he got on his feet O'Brien clinched repeatedly, and Eyton warned him about holding on. In the third Burns discovered that by sprinting ahead of O'Brien on the turns he could meet him and he could stave him off.

Jamn Ran the Other Way.

O'Brien turned and ran the other way, but Burns nailed him and in a mix-up brought the blood from Jack's mouth. The fifth, sixth and seventh rounds were wretched exhibitions on O'Brien's part, and in the eighth Burns managed to sneak in a thousand punches of a sort seldom seen. O'Brien hung on until the referee tore him away and just as Eyton forced his way between them Burns let fly with a high right swing and nailed O'Brien high on the side of the head. In the ninth round Burns chased O'Brien along the ropes, met him rounding a corner and slugged him back the way he came, landing on the body and missing a dozen in a whirlwind mix-up.

In the fourteenth round four of the arc lights over the ring sputtered and went out and the arena was left in half-darkness. O'Brien doubling along the ropes, remarked for the benefit of the spectators, "May be the fight were fixed."

By clinching, running away and jabbing at long range, O'Brien managed to escape without any further injury to his face, but the bell was welcome, for he was very tired when it rang.

Tried for Knockout.

Burns tried for a knockout in the nineteenth, but O'Brien was too fast for him, and the one time when there was a chance for a finishing punch O'Brien ducked his head and let the right swing whistle by.

The crowd was howling to Burns to go in and clean up the job when the bell rang for the last round, but Burns, disgusted with O'Brien's tactics, made two or three futile rushes and then lapsed. When the bell rang Eyton hoisted Burns's gloves, and Nolan rushed O'Brien from the ring. Jack was asked to make a statement, but he refused flatly.

"I won't say anything," he said, evidently fearing hostile demonstration. "I will guard my statement."

But the people who saw last night's fiasco know that no amount of talking will ever square Jack O'Brien with the sporting world. As a top-notch fighter O'Brien is down and out.

FIRST ENTRY FOR BIG CUP RACE IS RECEIVED

BY J. C. KERRISON.

Chairman Dumont Thompson has received the first bona fide entry for the forthcoming Vanderbilt road race. It is that of a B. L. & M., rated at 80 horsepower, supposed to be a duplicate of the car entered in the preliminaries of a year ago. In making the entry, the nominees reserved the right to name the driver within the next two weeks.

So much secrecy has been observed by some manufacturers concerning their Vanderbilt Cup plans that it is impossible to give definitely the number of cars now under construction for that event. It is safe to say, however, that at least twelve American machines are building for cup race purposes. Some details as to date, course and conditions of the race are expected to be announced after the meeting of the Cup Commission on May 15.

The members of the Rhode Island Automobile Club will enjoy themselves at the Tudor Farm Club, in Sharon, on Saturday afternoon next. This outing takes the place of the usual May Day run, and will be participated in by the majority of the motorists from Little Rhody as well as by a large number of Boston motorists.

Since the conditions of the wager made by F. J. Tyler have become known he has been besieched by tire men to use their particular make or style of tire. Up to the present time he has not determined as to just what tire equipment the Maxwell car, which is to carry thirteen full-grown persons up a hill in this vicinity, shall have. In the meantime there is a great hustle going on, the majority of the tire men in this section endeavoring to show Mr. Tyler the value and advisability of his using tires of their particular make.

Sales Manager A. W. Robinson of the Locomobile Company of America arrived in town yesterday as the guest of Kenneth M. Blake, the superintendent of the local branch of the Locomobile company. Mr. Robinson looked over the plant and pronounced it the very best in the list of branches owned by his company. He was mighty well pleased, not only with the plant, but likewise with the efficient manner in which it is being conducted.

T. A. Walters, formerly assistant manager of the Columbia Motor Vehicle Company in this city, and lately manager of the Washington branch of the Electric Vehicle Company, has returned to Boston after about a year's absence. He is again at the Stanhope street establishment and seems quite at home as the right bower of J. H. McAlman. Walters is well known and popular in this section.

YALE BEAT DARTMOUTH.

NEW HAVEN, May 9.—In the first extra inning game played at Yale field this year, Yale defeated Dartmouth, 2 to 1, winning out in the 11th inning, with two men out. It was a pretty pitchers' duel between Captain Skillen and Meyer, the same men who opposed each other last year.

Special to the Boston American.

DETROIT, May 9.—There promises to be a battle royal when the Pilgrims and the Tigers clash in the first engagement of the season between the teams here this afternoon.

The Bostons did not play yesterday, as they were on their way to this city. The Hub team is just after having won the two games played with the Senators, and they feel pretty confident of making a good showing here.

Ralph Glaze, the Dartmouth man, who is in about the best form of any of the Pilgrim twirlers, will probably pitch, while George Mullen will most likely do the honors for the home team.

When the Bostons last visited this city, the late lamented Chick Stahl was their manager. The Hub team now has Bob Unglaub, the first baseman, in charge. Unglaub says he likes the way the boys are travelling, and predicts they will win many games on this trip. He declares the men are in good shape, with the exception of some of the pitchers, who haven't yet rounded into the best of form.

BIG PIANO SALE

Specials for This Week

If you have any money saved up, no matter how little, come to this big sale; you can get one of the best pianos made at a price so low that you'll be ashamed almost to pay so little. Investigate.

We Praise Trust Pianos But Condemn Trust Prices

The lot of Pianos to be sacrificed this week is equal to and perhaps in close figuring would rate a little higher than that of last week, but we are going to quote but slightly changed prices on each make of pianos. There are a few high-grade New York, Chicago and Philadelphia pianos not mentioned in this list that are great bargains for anyone. If we were selling them in the cities where they were made we could double the prices and get it easily. This is an especially good lot from which to buy. Use your common sense if you are going to buy a piano. Come and see us anyway—seeing is believing, so they say.

THE BEST MAKERS—WHY PAY MORE?

GLEN ECHO LAKE

NO. STOUGHTON, 14 MILES OUT.

WATER FRONT LOTS, $150
ONE-ACRE FARMS, $100
CAMP LOTS, $50
LOTS, $5, $10, AND $15
$2 DOWN, $1 A WEEK

AT THIS picturesque lake of pure spring water; the Electric Road has the finest pine grove in the State; large hotel, dancing pavilion, bowling alley and bathhouses; across the lake, in the sacred grove of the Indians, beside their great god Manitou, is the new village of Glen Echo, that sprang up like a mushroom and is growing like a Western mining town; stores will be built this season, and probably 50 more cottages; over $20,000 worth of land sold to hundreds of people; lots bought for $100 advanced to $200 before the owners had paid in $15; the camp lots are close to the lake, covered with good oak trees, affording ample shade; the acre plots are on an abandoned farm, good soil, mostly free from rocks, high, healthy location, pure country air; here you can raise all your own poultry and vegetables and have a beautiful country home; nowhere else can you buy an acre of land for $1 per week; $25 cash bonus to builders; free excursion every Sunday at 12. G. W. BARTLETT, 89 Court st.

"Silent" Smith, the Millionaire

He Is Silent NOW, Indeed—The Millions Are Scattered

A young man never heard of found suddenly that he "owned" forty millions of dollars or more. A hard-working old man had accumulated the money. Most of it represented the work of men who contributed to the man of millions part of their earnings in return for his directing power. Some of it came from increased values of land. The increased value of land, of course, came from the fact that women, bearing many children, made the demand for land greater.

This man of great wealth, who had scraped together this pile of millions, left it to his nephew, a quiet, silent young man.

For a short time the nephew, named by the newspapers "Silent" Smith, came home to enjoy, and, in part, to spend the great fortune. Now he in his turn is gone, and the millions, with their power, go to new hands.

A very short time ago, so short a time that young children can remember it, "Silent" Smith, who is now silent forever, got his great fortune.

His career was brief—its shortness invites an analysis of his case, a study of what it means merely to HAVE so vast a sum of money.

From "Silent" Smith we learn that it is THE MAN that counts. The fortune of millions means little.

The dead man of money was estimable, law-abiding, modest. His memory calls only for respectful, kindly words.

But his history shows how little money, of itself, really means.

How many Americans have worked, distorted their moral natures, struggled and planned for a great fortune?

How many have deceived themselves as to what the possession of great wealth might mean?

They may learn a lesson from the silent man whose body has come to be buried under a great stone—the last ostentatious favor that the millions of dollars can do for him.

What did he DO or leave behind that will live in men's memories or in history? Nothing, not ONE thing that any man will remember or speak of three months from now.

He bought a great house. That is forgotten.

He took lessons and in a feeble way learned to drive four horses harnessed together—provided they did not "pull" too hard. That is forgotten.

He was eagerly seized upon by the peculiar, enterprising women "of society," always eager to show a new rich man how to spend his money. They showed him how, but that is forgotten. The terrapin and duck that he gave others to eat; the corks that were pulled at his expense; the flunkies that idled away their hours in his hall, or smiled at his simplicity, or sneered at the vulgarity of others—all that is a part of the past.

This kindly, good-hearted man had in his hands forty millions of dollars. That means the work of forty million men for a day or of one man for forty million days. It is enough money to build a great railroad. It is enough to perfect ten thousand inventions, enough to spread a real idea all over the face of the earth.

But what is distributing power without the IDEA?

"Silent" Smith had forty millions, BUT HE HAD NO IDEAS. It takes one kind of a brain to pile up a great fortune. It takes another to spend it, for good, or even for ill, in a striking way.

It takes imagination to make a factor among men of a "Silent" Smith joined to a forty-million-dollar bank account.

Peter Cooper, whose name is remembered and loved in every American home for the noble way in which he spent his money, never dreamed of a fortune such as that of "Silent" Smith.

Had Thomas E. Edison had that fortune twenty-five years ago, ASSUMING THAT IT WOULD NOT HAVE RUINED HIM UTTERLY, it might have enabled him to multiply by a thousand the benefits that he has bestowed upon the human race by his discoveries.

It is impossible to estimate or to exaggerate what might be done with that financial engine, that great fortune to which millions of human beings were ready to bend the knee, a fortune that could have given orders and put to work hundreds of thousands of men.

HOW MUCH DEPENDS UPON THE MIND THAT GUIDES! With no strong guiding mind in control, the engine of forty millions was like a locomotive rusting in a field, its power going to waste.

Our readers can moralize about this. THOSE THAT ARE DISSATISFIED WORKERS IN HUMBLE FIELDS should think of one point particularly. Remember how much depends in this country, in this INDUSTRIAL AGE, on the force, the imagination, the industrial genius of the men that control the vast sums of money. While you may think that you get too little—you often do—don't forget to ask yourself if you could do as well as the manager of a great fortune, if you had it. Think of the wonders that have been accomplished by great sums of money in the hands of American men with great imagination.

Think of the continent covered with railroads, forests cut down, mines opened, great steamship lines built, factories starting all over the country in a decade like mushrooms in a field, employment found by man's imagination for millions and tens of millions of men.

We have seen how a great fortune that might have stimulated industry and promoted prosperity lies idle and means nothing in the hands of a man without imagination. While you strive for good laws and just treatment, while you try to get YOUR FAIR SHARE, don't forget what the country owes and what the workers owe to men that have combined with the possession of great fortunes imagination telling them to spend them in a big and useful way—a way that means men employed, new fields cultivated, new railroads built, new possibilities for the generations to come that will look back with gratitude upon the marvellous industrial genius and energy of to-day and ask but a few questions as to the weaker side of the men whose best side did so much.

WHO SPOKE?

Certainly It Wasn't Massachusetts

Says the Boston Transcript, continuing its campaign of misrepresentation, on the Public Opinion Bill:

> Massachusetts has at last spoken on this question, and has done so emphatically.

Massachusetts has NOT spoken on the question.

MASSACHUSETTS HAS BEEN DENIED THE RIGHT OF SPEAKING on any question on which it desires to speak.

The members of the Republican majority of the lower branch of the Legislature have spoken on the question, and when they spoke their voice was Lodge's voice, but the hands that guided them were the hands of the corporations that contribute to campaign funds.

SOMETIME—if Mr. Lodge and the corporations will kindly permit it—MASSACHUSETTS will be allowed to speak on public questions.

Tainted Things

By the Ordinary Citizen

THE time is near when we shall say of a thing that appeals to us, not "How fine," or "How cheap," or even "How useful," but we shall first of all think of asking "What were the conditions in its making?"

Good conditions will be the stamp of highest merit in a product.

To care for the human story back of the thing itself, that is indeed a test of one's genuineness of human feeling. Every piece of work turned out should be made to give a good acount of itself.

This applies equally to articles of plain necessity as well as those of smart luxury. The latter need particularly to be examined in the flame of public conscience because, in spite of the high prices they sell for in fashionable shops, there is often a history behind them of miserable underpayment in a killing environment.

Is it too much to ask of the everyday purchaser that he do not, through ignorance or thoughtlessness, aid and abet the production of things tainted by the needless waste of human life and social well-being?

Sheer self-preservation is forcing people to make reasonably sure that the garments they buy do not reek with dangers of disease-breeding tenement toil. The sweat-shop deals death not only to the workers, but also to accomplices who are remote but criminally indifferent customers. Truly we are all members of one body.

The wraps and bonnets made in that Illinois shop which was described before the members of the Catholic Women's League of Chicago as compelling the girls to take drugs in order to keep awake will surely punish the community as bitterly as they do the workers.

The word "tainted" is not a pleasant one to use, but it has force of meaning. It is educating us rapidly.

We know that typhoid fever breaks out frequently in a town that has hitherto enjoyed normal health and vigor. Inquiry is started and the facts show that at some far-off place the squalid surroundings of some family made it possible for pollution to taint a little rill which fed the stream which went to make the water supply of the town. Thus the inhuman conditions of a place remote meant death near at home.

The truth is dawning upon the minds of men that the products of labor may be subtly but fatally tinted by wrong conditions.

Not from motives of dread alone need we open our eyes to ask what is the pedigree, the "reference" of an article. We demand pure food, pure drink, pure air for the whole people, not merely for a part.

It requires no very profound mind to realize that our civilization rests at bottom upon the health and happiness of those who daily exert themselves in honest effort.

Therefore it is the part of good sense to insist that when we buy we should do so with more than our bargaining instinct.

We must do our buying with a live conscience inside us at work. Let us never forget that everything we look at in store, shop, factory, street or art museum stands for some hidden tale of either joy or bitter tears.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

The Spirit of Religious Persecution Still Lives in the Hearts of Some Good Christians

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

"FOR two hours last night," writes an acquaintance, "my mother and my sister preached to me that I would lose my soul unless I came to their orthodox views of religion. I cannot believe as they do. I believe in the Great Creator and in the LAW OF LOVE. I believe Christ was a Great Master, who taught this law of love. He is my Teacher and Brother and Friend.

"I believe the translators have left very little absolute Holy Writ unviolated. There are so many interpretations one can give various passages that I believe I have as good a right to my interpretation of Holy Writ as all the conflicting ones of the various sects and creeds. I try to love my neighbor as myself, and one of my ways of showing it is in letting him worship his own way—just as I want my own way. My family cannot see that this is an evidence of brotherly love to allow your friends LIBERTY OF CONSCIENCE.

"They feel they must think for me, and bring me to their point of view, or else consign me to fire and brimstone after I pass on. I really feel sometimes that such a fate would be happier than to live with my relatives through another life and hear them preach."

Struggle for Liberty

THE battle of my friend for her liberty of conscience is just the same battle that great man of history, WILLIAM THE SILENT OF HOLLAND, fought with the bigots of the Spanish Inquisition. And he was finally assassinated because he maintained the principle as one of the ethics of true religion.

The world suffered from a hundred years' war through just such bigots as the family of my correspondent.

Had she lived in those "good old days" she would have been dipped in hot oil and allowed to slowly roast to death if she had not come to the point of view of her interested friends and "well wishers."

Philip II. of Spain said there was no crime so terrible as FREEDOM OF CONSCIENCE, and he issued an edict that all who worshipped in any way save HIS way (which was the way of his church) should be exterminated.

And so he and his friends burned and tortured, and hung, and beheaded, and buried alive, and starved to death hundreds of thousands of good people; and all this was done in the name of Christ.

And his opponents paid an eye for an eye—and slaughtered as many in retaliation.

Those charming days are past, but the spirit of persecution still lives in the hearts of many "devout Christians," who are obliged to be content with making their friends and relatives miserable in the way my correspondent describes.

Religion That Saves

HERE is an excellent test for any soul wishing to find if it is on the right path to salvation:

Each morning ask yourself, on awakening, if there is a human being on earth for whom you feel any ill will; any one over whose misfortunes you would rejoice; any one to whom you would not extend a kindness, if asked.

If you can answer your own soul frankly in the negative, and if you go forth toward the day with the love of God and humanity in your heart, hoping to do only good, then you need not fear you are to be "lost," however your faith may differ from that of all churches in the world.

If you cannot answer this question in the negative, if there is any one you dislike enough to wish ill, then be sure your religion is not the right kind.

Jones's Hen

By Morton Birge

THERE'S jealousy in Dorchester and bitterness galore,
And some of Jones's neighbors don't admire him any more.
The hen sharps in the district say, of all the uppish tricks,
Was Jones's hen a-hatching out of thirteen husky chicks.

THIS Jones, he picked out thirteen eggs of common, barnyard stock,
And on those self-same eggs he set one Mrs. Plymouth Rock.
And then his rivals all allowed that maybe five or six
Would be about his limit when it came to counting chicks.

BUT that same hen kept setting tight, and when the time was run
And Jones went out to get results and count them, one by one,
He found that Mrs. Plymouth Rock was crosser than two sticks
Endeavoring to minister to thirteen lively chicks.

NOW Jones is saying, "Did I tell you how that hatch came out?"
And all the rival hen-sharps in that district roundabout
Are sorry for the talk in which they first began to mix
Since Jones's Plymouth Rock hatched out the whole blamed thirteen chicks.
